Top Polio Fighters To Confer

O'Connor Asks Cutter Vaccine Data's Release

Head Of Foundation Says Politics Mixed Up In Controversy

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Basil O'Connor, head of the March of Dimes, tonight asked the government to "release immediately to the public" results of its study of polio vaccine made by one firm, Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif.

His telegram hinted that those results held keys whether testing requirements of all vaccine should be changed.

Extensive changes could bring long delays, for weeks, in polio inoculations.

O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said Cutter vaccine was withdrawn from use nearly a month ago, on April 27. The U. S. Public Health Service took that action after numerous cases of polio occurred after use of Cutter vaccine, to make check-up studies to learn if there was an association.

"Enough Time" Has Elapsed

"I assume enough time has elapsed that this information has been collected," O'Connor told newsmen.

His telegram asked Dr. Leonard Scheele, surgeon general of the Public Health Service, to "release immediately to the public the results of the investigation of the Cutter situation, because without that knowledge, no intelligent conclusion can be reached whether the present testing requirements should be altered or increased."

O'Connor re-emphasied his belief that, "There is no doubt about the safety and efficacy of the Salk vaccine, assuming it is properly made."

Politics Charged

Earlier, O'Connor declared that "supply and demand, politics and economic factors of competition" have figured in the controversy over Salk vaccine.

"So long as a piece of scientific research is in the research stage, it is under control of the organization which sponsors it," O'Connor said at a journalism award luncheon of the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation.

"When you solve a problem in research it becomes subject to supply and demand, politics and economic factors of competition."

O'Connor discarded a prepared text and told approximately 300 at the luncheon, "So long as the Salk vaccine and its research was in the hands of the National Foundation, you had some intelligence, total courage, intellectual integrity, and you had no politics whatsoever."

Favorable Soviet Reply To Meeting Bid Seen By Eden

LONDON, May 23 (AP) — Prime Minister Eden said tonight he has "every reason to suppose that the Soviet answer will be favorable" to the Western invitation for a Big Four meeting at the top level.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov said in Vienna May 15 the Western proposal for such talks corresponds "completely with the peaceful policy of the Soviet Union," but the Russians still have not sent a note formally agreeing to a conference.

West Motives Questioned

Over the weekend the Russian Communist party newspaper Pravda was sharply critical of Western motives in planning the conference. Moscow radio asked today if the West would scuttle the whole idea if Eden's Conservatives win the British election Thursday. Pravda also has accused the West of quibbling about the site and duration of the projected conference. It also has charged the United States with making "unreasonable" demands to include on the agenda such questions as restoring Western-style democratic governments in the Soviet satellite states.

Better Relations Only Purpose

"For our part," Eden said, "we have no rigid ideas on these points, but I want us to have ample time at the meeting."

Eden told a political rally in Birmingham the West seeks the top-level talks for only one purpose—to try to "open the way towards better relations between East and West."

"It is natural that the Russian government should require time to decide upon their answer," Eden said. "It also is not unreasonable for the Russian government to express its views about the place and duration of the conference."

Anastasia Admits Tax Evasion Guilt

CAMDEN, N. J., May 23 (AP)—Dapper Albert Anastasia, variously described as the leader and trigger man of the notorious New York "Murder Inc." mob, changed his mind in Federal Court today and pleaded guilty to income tax evasion.

The 50-year-old Anastasia, unsmiling as he stood before U. S. District Judge Thomas M. Madden, said he was guilty of failing to pay $11,743 in income taxes for the years 1947-48, as the government charged.

Madden, set to preside at Anastasia's retrial scheduled here May 31, continued bail at $10,000 and ordered the ex-convict—who has faced five murder indictments—to appear for sentencing June 3.

His first trial in Newark, N. J., ended in a hung jury.

The disappearance of a Fort Lee, Fla. couple—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferri—highlighted Anastasia's recent fight on the income tax charge.

Ferri, a plumbing and heating contractor, was a witness at Anastasia's first trial. Florida authorities hinted the couple may have been murdered and linked Anastasia to the mysterious disappearance.

Youth Leaps To His Death From Bridge In Fit Of Bravado

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—In a fit of adolescent bravado, a 17-year - old would-be paratrooper flung himself to death today from a Harlem River bridge. He died with a sneer on his lips.

"I'll show you," the victim, William Olivar, told his pals as he vaulted a four-foot railing and plunged 180 feet to the river below.

His leap climaxed a teasing argument over his qualifications as a paratrooper. He was to have joined the service tomorrow.

"We saw him jackknife and land in the water on his back," said one of his friends, 16-year-old George Beatty. It took an hour to recover the body.

Ex-POWs Want To Leave India

NEW DELHI, India, May 23 (AP)—Life in neutral India has palled on 43 Koreans who were prisoners of war when the Korean War ended. They appealed to the U. N. today to speed their resettlement in Latin America or allow them to return to South Korea.

They also asked protection from "political pressure to return us to North Korea or Red China." Indian officials denied the group had been subjected to any such pressure.

The former prisoners have been in India since March, 1953, when they were brought from the Korean neutral zone with Indian army units on the repatriation teams. They wanted to live in neither North nor South Korea.

Eighty-two Koreans in all were brought here and housed in Barracks, but 32 elected to settle in India. The remaining 50 have been waiting for two years for permits to migrate to other countries and all but seven of this group joined in the appeal to the U. N.

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP) — House passage sent to the Senate today a bill giving residents of the District of Columbia a legal right to vote for delegates to national political conventions.

British Election Is Warmed Up By Strike Issue

LONDON, May 23 (AP) — An atmosphere of industrial unrest pulled Britain's election campaign out of the doldrums tonight and injected a new factor in Thursday's voting for a new 630-member House of Commons.

Behind closed doors, both Conservative and Labor headquarters planned last minute campaign moves. Victory for either side means the right to govern Britain for the next five years.

Socialistic Laborites, sensing they were running behind, searched feverishly for a new issue.

It appears likely Britain's 35 million voters will go to the polls with five major ports paralyzed by a jurisdictional dispute of dock workers and with the still graver threat of a nationwide rail strike due to begin almost before all the ballots are counted.

How will this affect the election?

It is difficult to make a definite appraisal. But presumably the disputes could strengthen the cause of Prime Minister Eden's Conservatives. Uncommitted middle class voters—the people who swing the balance in any British election—might be frightened away from Labor candidates.

Leftwing Laborite Aneurin Bevan contended in recent speeches the Conservative government has encouraged "a policy of grab by big business" and this philosophy has worked its way into the ranks of the workers. The Labor moderates have taken up Bevan's theme.

Frederick Co. Work Gang Escapee Nabbed

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Robert L. Chapman, 35-year-old escapee from a Frederick County work gang, was captured here today by Northwestern District police.

Chapman was found asleep in a third floor hallway. Police had gone to the building in response to a complaint about the fugitive snoozing there.

A Baltimorean, Chapman was serving a 135-day term in the Frederick County jail when he jumped from a truck en route to a road project last Wednesday. He disappeared into a patch of woods east of New Market on U.S. 40.

Chapman was sentenced for nonpayment of $328.80 in fines for a series of traffic charges, including drunken driving.

Coal Men Ask Ike To Cancel Steam Engine's 'Last Rites'

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Coal men asked President Eisenhower today to close the damper against any governmental participation in "last rites" for the steam locomotive.

"Plain propaganda" for the diesel and oil industries, the National Coal Assn. fumed in a telegram of protest to the White House.

"Ridiculous," Rep. Mailey, Democrat from West Virginia's coal regions, snorted in Congress.

"Why, there were 6,503 steam engines in service on the railroads not later than last month," Bailey told the House. "And last year the railroads bought 16,700,000 tons of coal to run 'em."

What got all the steam up was word by the Interstate Commerce Commission that a brass bell from a "retired" steam engine will be mounted on a stone pedestal at the commission building in memory of the steam engine's replacement by the oil burning diesel.

The bell and base were offerd by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad. Th ICC accepted the idea and a ceremony is planned for Thursday.

"They are gullible for falling for that nonsense by the oil men," Bailey said.

"The steam locomotive isn't any more dead than I am."

Tom Pickett, vice president of the Coal Assn., said in the telegram to the White House that the ceremony would be an "unpardonable affront" to the coal industry.

The Assn. protested to the ICC last week that such a ceremony for "the death and burial" of steam locomotives was premature. Its request that the ceremony be cancelled was rejected by ICC after a conference.

Supreme Court Ruling

Convictions Of Three Who Defied Red Probers Upset

Trio Refused To Answer Queries

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Supreme Court today threw out contempt-of-Congress convictions of three men who refused to answer questions put to them by congressional Red-hunters.

Chief Justice Warren, who spoke for the majority in all three cases, said governmental bodies "must be most scrupulous" in protecting the rights of a witness under the Fifth Amendment's guarantee against compulsory self-incrimination.

Warren also said that congressional committees, in laying the foundation for a contempt prosecution, must make it clear to a witness that he is in danger of prosecution for refusing to answer questions.

Given No Clear-Cut Choice

In none of the three cases, Warren said, did the House Un-American Activities Committee confront the witness with a clear-cut choice between answering a question and risking prosecution.

These following convictions were reversed and sent back to U. S. District Court here with instructions to enter judgments of acquittal:

Julius Emspak, secretary-treasurer of the United Electrical Workers Union, which was expelled from the CIO several years ago on the ground it was Communist-dominated.

Quinn, Bart "Cleared"

Thomas Quinn, a field organizer for the same union, who also was called as a witness during the same investigation.

Phillip Bart, general manager of the Daily Worker, Communist party newspaper, a witness before the same committee in 1950.

These three cases were the most important ruled on today. The court recessed until May 31 without any ruling in the matter of racial segregation in the public schools. This ruling may yet come before the summer recess.

Senators Press For 'True Story' Of Air Strength

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Senate Democrats put on new pressure today to get what Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson termed the "true story" of how American air power stacks up against Russia's.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo), who fired up the controversy last week, demanded in the Senate that the Eisenhower administraion answer "the one great question . . . How does our strength compare with the strength of the Communists, those who have so often reiterated their determination to destroy us?"

Wilson Urged To Speak Out

Johnson, of Texas, said Secretary of Defense Wilson owed it to the people to straighten them out on the question and to see to it that "the generals and the secretaries get together so that the right hand knows what the left is doing."

Secretary of Air Force Talbott 10 days ago issued a release discussing the appearance of new types of Russian warplanes. That led Symington at the time to question whether Russia might not be gaining air superiority.

Since then there have been what Sen. Johnson called "a new rash of confusing statements." He said "there should be clarification as to what is the true story."

Pentagon Reported Shocked

The magazine Aviation Week reported yesterday that Russian air advancements have shocked "even the top level and the most knowledgeable military aviation leaders in the Pentagon."

The magazine said some high civilian officials in the government seem to have been practicing "a deliberate deception" of the people.

Before the controversy worked up to its peak last weekend, President Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that "to say we have lost in a twinkling all of this great technical development and technical excellence as well as the numbers in our total aircraft is just not true."

Sen. McCarthy Calls Milton Eisenhower 'Unofficial President'

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said tonight he regards Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, as "the unofficial president of the United States."

Describing Milton Eisenhower, who is president of Pennsylvania State University, as "more than an influence on the President," McCarthy said:

"He is one of the most left wingers you can find in the Republican party. Luckily, Ike doesn't follow him in all his advice. If he did the country would be in much worse shape."

Among other things, the senator said he could not support Eisenhower for reelection in 1956 "unless the President does something about the prisoner of war situation."

However, he said that if Democrat Adlai Stevenson were the only other candidate "I would have to, I suppose, vote for Eisenhower as the lesser of two evils."

Longshoremen Strike Cripples British Ports

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—Striking dockers crippled Britain's four biggest ports today in a bitter interunion feud for bargaining rights on the nation's waterfronts. The Labor party's chances in Thursday's parliamentary election were not enhanced thereby.

Food ships began to pile up in the Thames Estuary and government officials warned the nation's vital export trade would be crippled if the strike continues.

More than 18,000 longshoremen quit work at London, Manchester, Hull and the twin Mersey ports of Liverpool and Birkenhead. A handful of others came out at smaller ports up and down the country. Another 30,000 remained on the job, but with working teams split up many gangs were unable to cope with their normal jobs.

CHARGED — John J. Murray (above), 24-year-old Columbia, Pa., construction worker, yesterday was charged with slaying Geraldine M. Golit, 30, Cambridge, Md. Murray told police he met the woman in a tavern and that she jumped from a truck he was driving in the midst of an argument. The woman's body was found on U. S. 50 after she was run over by a motorist who said he could not stop in time to keep from passing over the woman. (AP Wirephoto)

Yugos Give U. S. Pledge Of Policy "Independence"

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Yugoslavia has pledged it will stick to its "firm independence" despite Marshal Tito's decision to meet with Russia's top leaders.

The State Department reported the pledge only a few minutes after Secretary Dulles met with Yugoslavia's ambassador today.

Backing up the State Department's announcement, Yugoslav Ambassador Leo Mates told reporters: "There will be no changes in our foreign policy as a result of the visit to Belgrade."

Tito's Yugoslavia, while a Communist nation, has been at odds with Moscow since 1948.

Mates said the Yugoslav government has given its assurances "by diplomatic contact" in Belgrade with the American ambassador. He declined to elaborate but said it is "very decidedly" Yugoslavia's policy to "stick to its independent policy of recent years."

Both the State Department's and Mates' comments appeared to be designed to ease concern in the West over the scheduled visit later this month to Belgrade of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

The State Department, in an announcement which it acknowledged was "unusual," said Dulles called in Mates to discuss "recent developments in Europe, including the forthcoming visit of the heads of the Soviet Union to Belgrade."

Dulles recalled during this discussion, it said, "the violent hostility which the Soviet Union had since 1948 manifested against the Yugoslav government because of its policy of firm independence." It added:

"The secretary of state congratulated the Yugoslav ambassador upon the success which has now crowned the courageous pursuit of that policy, a policy which the government of the United States has been assured by the Yugoslav government it will continue to follow."

Turnpike Slayer's Conviction Upheld

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 23 (AP)—Pennsylvania's Supreme Court, upholding the death penalty, ruled today a jury was "well justified" in convicting John Wesley Wable as "the phantom slayer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike."

The high court unanimously refused a new trial for the 25-year-old Wable, convicted in Westmoreland County for the 1953 pistol murder of a truck driver as he slept in the cab of his truck on the famed toll road.

The prosecution also sought to link Wable with an almost identical slaying of another truck driver and the non-fatal shooting of a third. Wable denied at his trial he was the triggerman in the shootings.

Wable was convicted in the slaying of Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., who was shot to death as he slept in his truck cab parked along the turnpike on July 25, 1953.

Town's Evacuation Averted As Chlorine Leak Throttled

MONTAGUE, Mich., May 23 (AP)—A fire-scare evacuation of this Lake Michigan community was averted today after workmen throttled a chlorine gas leak at the 15-million-dollar Hooker electro-chemical plant here.

Billowing clouds of the deadly gas rolling from a broken pipe led to an erroneous report of a fire at the plant's liquifying vat half a mile from the city limits. Firemen said the pink-tinged gas clouds gave the appearance of fire.

The gas line break occurred at about 1:30 p. m. Montague city officials quickly ordered the town evacuated, but only 300 school children actually were removed before the gas line was repaired two hours later. Cause of the break was not determined.

City officials sent out calls to neighboring communities for assistance and asked for additional gas masks for personnel at the scene.

Joseph A. Tardiff, Hooker works manager, said four workmen were overcome by the gas. They were revived at the plant dispensary and two later were transferred to Hackley Hospital in nearby Muskegon. All were reported in good condition.

A force of 44 state policemen was ordered to the area to assist in operations and to head off thousands of persons who flocked to the area.

Fire departments from half a dozen communities were ordered to the scene, but several returned home before reaching Montague. Muskegon and Oceana County Civil Defense units also rushed to the scene and Red Cross mobile units in Muskegon were readied for emergency use.

Scheele Calls Salk Program Huddle Today

Purpose Not Given But Major Decision Apparently Is Near

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The government has called for a full dress conference of the nation's polio fighters here tomorrow, Surgeon Gen. Leonard Scheele announced tonight.

He did not disclose the purpose of the meeting, but developments over the last few days indicate that things are building up to a major decision on the Salk polio vaccine program, including perhaps new safety standards.

Scheele said the Vaccine Committee of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, officers of the American Medical Assn., and representatives of the Assn. of State and Territorial Health Officers have been invited to attend the conference.

They will meet with government scientists and experts from the six drug companies licensed to make the vaccine, who are already here.

Vaccine Handling Criticized

At the same time, government handling of the Salk vaccine came under fire from two directions.

Democrats called it "40 days of utter confusion," while Basil O'Connor, head of the polio foundation, charged it had become mixed up in politics.

O'Connor also telegraphed Scheele asking him to "release immediately to the public" the results of the government's study of Salk vaccine produced by the Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif.

Here in Washington, Reps. Martha Griffiths (D-Mich) and Edith Green (D-Ore) said the "utter confusion" in handling the vaccine will be a major issue in next year's presidential election campaign.

Addressing the Women's National Democratic Club, Mrs. Griffiths said it was "shocking" that Secretary of Welfare Hobby contends public demand for the vaccine could not have been foreseen. Mrs. Green added that Mrs. Hobby's administration certainly had time to prepare "an orderly and safe program" while the vaccine was still being tested.

"Regrettable," George Says

Sen. George (D-Ga) said he thinks the way the whole program has been handled is "regrettable."

He told a reporter he didn't know if politics had come on the scene, as O'Connor charged, but that he regarded it as "unfortunate" that the federal government didn't subject the vaccine to more thorough testing before its distribution began last month.

The government's scientific advisers met behind closed doors at the National Institutes of Health here today to thrash out technical problems involved in testing the Salk vaccine for safety before additional supplies are released for the school immunization program.

Dr. William Sebrell Jr., director of the institutes and chairman of the meeting, said they would probably wait until after tomorrow's meeting to report their recommendations to Scheele.

Women Preacher Proposal Adopted By Presbyterians

LOS ANGELES, May 23 (AP)—Presbyterians today approved a proposal to ordain women as ministers and criticized what they call a Roman Catholic "trend to exalt the figure of the Virgin Mother."

The 167th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America approved the women-preachers proposal by a standing vote. The preponderance in favor appeared about three or four to one. The proposal now goes to the church's 256 presbyteries, or local groups, for a final vote.

Approval by the 905 voting delegates followed lively debate. Proponents declared, "The Bible teaches 'in Christ Jesus there is neither male nor female.'" Opposition arguments included: 1. Women are confused as to their intended role in life and 2. A woman couldn't give a church the strong leadership it needs.

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Robert L. Chapman, 35-year-old escapee from a Frederick County work gang, was captured here today by Northwestern District police.

Chapman was found asleep in a third floor hallway. Police had gone to the building in response to a complaint about the fugitive snoozing there.

A Baltimorean, Chapman was serving a 135-day term in the Frederick County jail when he jumped from a truck en route to a road project last Wednesday. He disappeared into a patch of woods east of New Market on U.S. 40.

Chapman was sentenced for nonpayment of $328.80 in fines for a series of traffic charges, including drunken driving.

Coal Men Ask Ike To Cancel Steam Engine's 'Last Rites'

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Coal men asked President Eisenhower today to close the damper against any governmental participation in "last rites" for the steam locomotive.

"Plain propaganda" for the diesel and oil industries, the National Coal Assn. fumed in a telegram of protest to the White House.

"Ridiculous," Rep. Mailey, Democrat from West Virginia's coal regions, snorted in Congress.

"Why, there were 6,503 steam engines in service on the railroads not later than last month," Bailey told the House. "And last year the railroads bought 16,700,000 tons of coal to run 'em."

What got all the steam up was word by the Interstate Commerce Commission that a brass bell from a "retired" steam engine will be mounted on a stone pedestal at the commission building in memory of the steam engine's replacement by the oil burning diesel.

The bell and base were offerd by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad. Th ICC accepted the idea and a ceremony is planned for Thursday.

"They are gullible for falling for that nonsense by the oil men," Bailey said.

"The steam locomotive isn't any more dead than I am."

Tom Pickett, vice president of the Coal Assn., said in the telegram to the White House that the ceremony would be an "unpardonable affront" to the coal industry.

The Assn. protested to the ICC last week that such a ceremony for "the death and burial" of steam locomotives was premature. Its request that the ceremony be cancelled was rejected by ICC after a conference.

Supreme Court Ruling

Convictions Of Three Who Defied Red Probers Upset

Trio Refused To Answer Queries

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Supreme Court today threw out contempt-of-Congress convictions of three men who refused to answer questions put to them by congressional Red-hunters.

Chief Justice Warren, who spoke for the majority in all three cases, said governmental bodies "must be most scrupulous" in protecting the rights of a witness under the Fifth Amendment's guarantee against compulsory self-incrimination.

Warren also said that congressional committees, in laying the foundation for a contempt prosecution, must make it clear to a witness that he is in danger of prosecution for refusing to answer questions.

Given No Clear-Cut Choice

In none of the three cases, Warren said, did the House Un-American Activities Committee confront the witness with a clear-cut choice between answering a question and risking prosecution.

These following convictions were reversed and sent back to U. S. District Court here with instructions to enter judgments of acquittal:

Julius Emspak, secretary-treasurer of the United Electrical Workers Union, which was expelled from the CIO several years ago on the ground it was Communist-dominated.

Quinn, Bart "Cleared"

Thomas Quinn, a field organizer for the same union, who also was called as a witness during the same investigation.

Phillip Bart, general manager of the Daily Worker, Communist party newspaper, a witness before the same committee in 1950.

These three cases were the most important ruled on today. The court recessed until May 31 without any ruling in the matter of racial segregation in the public schools. This ruling may yet come before the summer recess.

Senators Press For 'True Story' Of Air Strength

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Senate Democrats put on new pressure today to get what Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson termed the "true story" of how American air power stacks up against Russia's.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo), who fired up the controversy last week, demanded in the Senate that the Eisenhower administraion answer "the one great question . . . How does our strength compare with the strength of the Communists, those who have so often reiterated their determination to destroy us?"

Wilson Urged To Speak Out

Johnson, of Texas, said Secretary of Defense Wilson owed it to the people to straighten them out on the question and to see to it that "the generals and the secretaries get together so that the right hand knows what the left is doing."

Secretary of Air Force Talbott 10 days ago issued a release discussing the appearance of new types of Russian warplanes. That led Symington at the time to question whether Russia might not be gaining air superiority.

Since then there have been what Sen. Johnson called "a new rash of confusing statements." He said "there should be clarification as to what is the true story."

Pentagon Reported Shocked

The magazine Aviation Week reported yesterday that Russian air advancements have shocked "even the top level and the most knowledgeable military aviation leaders in the Pentagon."

The magazine said some high civilian officials in the government seem to have been practicing "a deliberate deception" of the people.

Before the controversy worked up to its peak last weekend, President Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that "to say we have lost in a twinkling all of this great technical development and technical excellence as well as the numbers in our total aircraft is just not true."

Sen. McCarthy Calls Milton Eisenhower 'Unofficial President'

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said tonight he regards Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, as "the unofficial president of the United States."

Describing Milton Eisenhower, who is president of Pennsylvania State University, as "more than an influence on the President," McCarthy said:

"He is one of the most left wingers you can find in the Republican party. Luckily, Ike doesn't follow him in all his advice. If he did the country would be in much worse shape."

Among other things, the senator said he could not support Eisenhower for reelection in 1956 "unless the President does something about the prisoner of war situation."

However, he said that if Democrat Adlai Stevenson were the only other candidate "I would have to, I suppose, vote for Eisenhower as the lesser of two evils."

Longshoremen Strike Cripples British Ports

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—Striking dockers crippled Britain's four biggest ports today in a bitter interunion feud for bargaining rights on the nation's waterfronts. The Labor party's chances in Thursday's parliamentary election were not enhanced thereby.

Food ships began to pile up in the Thames Estuary and government officials warned the nation's vital export trade would be crippled if the strike continues.

More than 18,000 longshoremen quit work at London, Manchester, Hull and the twin Mersey ports of Liverpool and Birkenhead. A handful of others came out at smaller ports up and down the country. Another 30,000 remained on the job, but with working teams split up many gangs were unable to cope with their normal jobs.

CHARGED — John J. Murray (above), 24-year-old Columbia, Pa., construction worker, yesterday was charged with slaying Geraldine M. Golit, 30, Cambridge, Md. Murray told police he met the woman in a tavern and that she jumped from a truck he was driving in the midst of an argument. The woman's body was found on U. S. 50 after she was run over by a motorist who said he could not stop in time to keep from passing over the woman. (AP Wirephoto)

Yugos Give U. S. Pledge Of Policy "Independence"

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Yugoslavia has pledged it will stick to its "firm independence" despite Marshal Tito's decision to meet with Russia's top leaders.

The State Department reported the pledge only a few minutes after Secretary Dulles met with Yugoslavia's ambassador today.

Backing up the State Department's announcement, Yugoslav Ambassador Leo Mates told reporters: "There will be no changes in our foreign policy as a result of the visit to Belgrade."

Tito's Yugoslavia, while a Communist nation, has been at odds with Moscow since 1948.

Mates said the Yugoslav government has given its assurances "by diplomatic contact" in Belgrade with the American ambassador. He declined to elaborate but said it is "very decidedly" Yugoslavia's policy to "stick to its independent policy of recent years."

Both the State Department's and Mates' comments appeared to be designed to ease concern in the West over the scheduled visit later this month to Belgrade of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

The State Department, in an announcement which it acknowledged was "unusual," said Dulles called in Mates to discuss "recent developments in Europe, including the forthcoming visit of the heads of the Soviet Union to Belgrade."

Dulles recalled during this discussion, it said, "the violent hostility which the Soviet Union had since 1948 manifested against the Yugoslav government because of its policy of firm independence." It added:

"The secretary of state congratulated the Yugoslav ambassador upon the success which has now crowned the courageous pursuit of that policy, a policy which the government of the United States has been assured by the Yugoslav government it will continue to follow."

Turnpike Slayer's Conviction Upheld

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 23 (AP)—Pennsylvania's Supreme Court, upholding the death penalty, ruled today a jury was "well justified" in convicting John Wesley Wable as "the phantom slayer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike."

The high court unanimously refused a new trial for the 25-year-old Wable, convicted in Westmoreland County for the 1953 pistol murder of a truck driver as he slept in the cab of his truck on the famed toll road.

The prosecution also sought to link Wable with an almost identical slaying of another truck driver and the non-fatal shooting of a third. Wable denied at his trial he was the triggerman in the shootings.

Wable was convicted in the slaying of Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., who was shot to death as he slept in his truck cab parked along the turnpike on July 25, 1953.

Town's Evacuation Averted As Chlorine Leak Throttled

MONTAGUE, Mich., May 23 (AP)—A fire-scare evacuation of this Lake Michigan community was averted today after workmen throttled a chlorine gas leak at the 15-million-dollar Hooker electro-chemical plant here.

Billowing clouds of the deadly gas rolling from a broken pipe led to an erroneous report of a fire at the plant's liquifying vat half a mile from the city limits. Firemen said the pink-tinged gas clouds gave the appearance of fire.

The gas line break occurred at about 1:30 p. m. Montague city officials quickly ordered the town evacuated, but only 300 school children actually were removed before the gas line was repaired two hours later. Cause of the break was not determined.

City officials sent out calls to neighboring communities for assistance and asked for additional gas masks for personnel at the scene.

Joseph A. Tardiff, Hooker works manager, said four workmen were overcome by the gas. They were revived at the plant dispensary and two later were transferred to Hackley Hospital in nearby Muskegon. All were reported in good condition.

A force of 44 state policemen was ordered to the area to assist in operations and to head off thousands of persons who flocked to the area.

Fire departments from half a dozen communities were ordered to the scene, but several returned home before reaching Montague. Muskegon and Oceana County Civil Defense units also rushed to the scene and Red Cross mobile units in Muskegon were readied for emergency use.

Scheele Calls Salk Program Huddle Today

Purpose Not Given But Major Decision Apparently Is Near

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The government has called for a full dress conference of the nation's polio fighters here tomorrow, Surgeon Gen. Leonard Scheele announced tonight.

He did not disclose the purpose of the meeting, but developments over the last few days indicate that things are building up to a major decision on the Salk polio vaccine program, including perhaps new safety standards.

Scheele said the Vaccine Committee of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, officers of the American Medical Assn., and representatives of the Assn. of State and Territorial Health Officers have been invited to attend the conference.

They will meet with government scientists and experts from the six drug companies licensed to make the vaccine, who are already here.

Vaccine Handling Criticized

At the same time, government handling of the Salk vaccine came under fire from two directions.

Democrats called it "40 days of utter confusion," while Basil O'Connor, head of the polio foundation, charged it had become mixed up in politics.

O'Connor also telegraphed Scheele asking him to "release immediately to the public" the results of the government's study of Salk vaccine produced by the Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif.

Here in Washington, Reps. Martha Griffiths (D-Mich) and Edith Green (D-Ore) said the "utter confusion" in handling the vaccine will be a major issue in next year's presidential election campaign.

Addressing the Women's National Democratic Club, Mrs. Griffiths said it was "shocking" that Secretary of Welfare Hobby contends public demand for the vaccine could not have been foreseen. Mrs. Green added that Mrs. Hobby's administration certainly had time to prepare "an orderly and safe program" while the vaccine was still being tested.

"Regrettable," George Says

Sen. George (D-Ga) said he thinks the way the whole program has been handled is "regrettable."

He told a reporter he didn't know if politics had come on the scene, as O'Connor charged, but that he regarded it as "unfortunate" that the federal government didn't subject the vaccine to more thorough testing before its distribution began last month.

The government's scientific advisers met behind closed doors at the National Institutes of Health here today to thrash out technical problems involved in testing the Salk vaccine for safety before additional supplies are released for the school immunization program.

Dr. William Sebrell Jr., director of the institutes and chairman of the meeting, said they would probably wait until after tomorrow's meeting to report their recommendations to Scheele.

Women Preacher Proposal Adopted By Presbyterians

LOS ANGELES, May 23 (AP)—Presbyterians today approved a proposal to ordain women as ministers and criticized what they call a Roman Catholic "trend to exalt the figure of the Virgin Mother."

The 167th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America approved the women-preachers proposal by a standing vote. The preponderance in favor appeared about three or four to one. The proposal now goes to the church's 256 presbyteries, or local groups, for a final vote.

Approval by the 905 voting delegates followed lively debate. Proponents declared, "The Bible teaches 'in Christ Jesus there is neither male nor female.'" Opposition arguments included: 1. Women are confused as to their intended role in life and 2. A woman couldn't give a church the strong leadership it needs.

Firecrackers Stolen

MILLINGTON, Md., May 23 (AP)—State Police are investigating the weekend theft of 40 gross of firecrackers and five electric motors from a fireworks plant near here.

Ike Declares GOP Upholds Rights Of 'Free Americans'

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower said tonight the Republican party may be a minority party on a statistical basis, but that it is not expounding a minority doctrine in upholding principles of the founding fathers and the rights of "free Americans."

"We are not trying to go back to horsecars," Eisenhower said. "We are not trying to fly to Mars."

He said the Republicans are trying to advance the interests of a prosperous America by applying the experience of the past to problems of the future.

The chief executive spoke informally at a GOP "kickoff for 1956 dinner". A crowd estimated by party officials at 1,600 gave the President a ringing chant of, "We want Ike."

Eisenhower grinned broadly and voiced his appreciation of the welcome, but he gave no clues of his own intentions for next year. He did say that there are dozens of leaders within the party of a caliber and age of Vice President Nixon who can bring dedicated service to the GOP. Nixon is 42.

Other top administration speakers at the dinner said the Eisenhower administration has brought the nation prosperity in a "new atmosphere of peace."

Eisenhower said he firmly believes the GOP is "the finest organism we have" through which the electorate can preserve the kind of country it wants, in which every man, woman and child can be "proud to be an American."

Italian Police Hold 10 As Spy Ring Suspects

ROME, May 23 (AP)—Police said today 10 persons were being held in a probe of a suspected spy ring believed to have radioed Western secrets to Iron Curtain countries.

The authorities said six other persons were questioned in the case but were released.

The roundup stemmed from the arrest two weeks ago of a young Trieste couple, charged with "possessing espionage equipment" and with gathering secret information.

Commerce Dept. Says States Lag On Public Works

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The Commerce Department said today states and communities must spend billions more if they are to keep up with their public works needs.

It said these needs require that outlays be more than double the present rate in each of the 10 years through 1964.

A department study outlined a 204 billion dollar program it said should be completed by 1964 for highways, schools, hospitals and similar institutional buildings, water and sewage works, and other nonfederal projects except public housing. Public housing was not included in the study.

This meant spending nearly 20½ billion dollars a year by states and communities, compared with the record 1954 outlay of about 8½ billion. Such spending this year, it was predicted, would rise to about 10 billion dollars.

The study said that state and local government are known to have in ready-to-go or advanced planning status about 7½ billion dollars of future public works—about 3.7 per cent of the need foreseen over the next 10 years.

Additionally, it said, by the middle of last year the states and their communities had already virtually used up 63¼ million dollars of planning funds advanced to them by the federal government.

"Thus," it said, "little outside aid is available for planning now, and only a small amount of work is on the shelf to help state and local governments gather the momentum necessary to provide the additional public construction needed in the next 10 years."

Parents Of 11 Must Repay Over $2,500 In Welfare Money

HAGERSTOWN, May 23 (AP)—A Clear Spring couple with 11 children who got more than $5,000 in welfare payments in 2½ years, pleaded guilty today to getting about half of it under false pretenses.

Given a year's suspended sentence and ordered to pay back the money were Andrew Myers, a carpenter, and his wife, Dora.

State's Atty. Tom Kaylor told the court that from May, 1952, through November of last year Myers earned $7,933 and got $5,130 from the Washington County Welfare Board.

The grand jury indicted them on charges that $2,560 of the welfare money was received through misrepresentations to the board.

Defense counsel told the court the money had not been spent foolishly, noting the couple had 11 children.

The court was told Myers is in debt for $1,000 for a truck and lives in a dwelling on a 3½-acre tract that is mortgaged.

Pollack's Son Chosen For Seat In Md. House

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—The young son of Baltimore City's Fourth District Democratic political boss was recommended today to Gov. McKeldin to fill a vacancy from that district in the House of Delegates.

Members of the Democratic State Central Committee submitted to the governor the name of Morton C. Pollack, 25-year-old son of James H. (Jack) Pollack.

The governor is compelled by the State constitution to appoint the one recommended by district members of the central committee.

Edward Azrael, one of the three district members, said today Pollack's selection was based partly on the fact he had served in the House before. He was appointed in 1951, but was defeated in the primary elections this year.

Pollack succeeds Earl I. Rosenthal, who was named as an assistant attorney general.

State Gets Second Suffragan Bishop

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Rev. Harry Lee Doll, rector of Old St. Paul's Church, tomorrow becomes suffragan bishop of the diocese of Maryland—the second in history.

The consecration ceremony will be held in the Baltimore church Rev. Doll has served since 1942. The consecrator will be Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherill, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church.

Co-consecrators in the ceremony will be Rt. Rev. Frederick D. Goodwin, bishop of Virginia, and Bishop Noble C. Powell of Maryland.

Dr. Doll's election as suffragan bishop stemmed from a request Bishop Powell made last November when he asked for a suffragan to relieve him of some of the administrative burden.

Unionists Charge Illegal Checkoff

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Members of a CIO United Auto Workers local at Hagerstown have filed charges with the National Labor Relations board contending $5 is being taken from their paychecks each month illegally.

Donald Moynahan and Walter H. Russell, members of UAW-CIO Local 842, signed the charges.

They said in the declaration the money was a union assessment to finance a possible strike in the auto industry. Local 842 workers are employed at the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. plant in Hagerstown.

The charge said union officers told the company to withhold the $5 a month from employes under dues checkoff until further notice. Regular dues are $2.50.

The complainants said the membership of the local voted down the increase in March but local delegates voted for it at a national convention in Cleveland a month later.

Stage Is Set For Test Of Dog Quarantine Order

DENTON, Md., May 23 (AP) — A police chief was convicted today of failing to keep his dog tied, laying the foundation for a court test of the State's right to order a dog quarantine in Caroline County.

The State Board of Agriculture ordered a 90-day quarantine beginning April 15.

Magistrate W. A. Stewart Wright fined Chief Frank Dennis of Denton $1 and costs, and then suspended it.

K. Thomas Everngam, attorney for the chief and the newly-organized Caroline County Hounds and Hunters Assn. said the conviction would be appealed to the Circuit Court.

Dr. Edward G. Riley, county health officer, had said earlier the test was being set up.

What does it mean to "diversify" your investments?

Question submitted by Thomas J. Marks, Allen Park, Mich., Engineer.

It means that you don't put all your eggs in one basket . . . and it's a sound policy for many investors. You can diversify by investing in the different kinds of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange. There are common stocks (generally they've brought the largest returns over the years, but entail the most risk) and there are preferred stocks (usually less reward and less risk). And there are bonds—corporate and government—which are generally the safest of all securities, but which usually pay only a fixed rate of interest. Many people diversify their investments in all three—common stocks, preferred stocks and bonds—the ratio of one to the other depending on their objectives and personal situation. Another way to diversify is to invest in different companies, preferably in different industries.

The Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange can supply the latest available facts on listed companies and government bonds. They'll be happy to give you the information you need without cost or obligation. Let a partner or registered representative of your local Member Firm help you plan investments tailored to the amount of risk you can afford to assume.

Given a year's suspended sentence and ordered to pay back the money were Andrew Myers, a carpenter, and his wife, Dora.

State's Atty. Tom Kaylor told the court that from May, 1952, through November of last year Myers earned $7,933 and got $5,130 from the Washington County Welfare Board.

The grand jury indicted them on charges that $2,560 of the welfare money was received through misrepresentations to the board.

Defense counsel told the court the money had not been spent foolishly, noting the couple had 11 children.

The court was told Myers is in debt for $1,000 for a truck and lives in a dwelling on a 3½-acre tract that is mortgaged.

Pollack's Son Chosen For Seat In Md. House

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—The young son of Baltimore City's Fourth District Democratic political boss was recommended today to Gov. McKeldin to fill a vacancy from that district in the House of Delegates.

Members of the Democratic State Central Committee submitted to the governor the name of Morton C. Pollack, 25-year-old son of James H. (Jack) Pollack.

The governor is compelled by the State constitution to appoint the one recommended by district members of the central committee.

Edward Azrael, one of the three district members, said today Pollack's selection was based partly on the fact he had served in the House before. He was appointed in 1951, but was defeated in the primary elections this year.

Pollack succeeds Earl I. Rosenthal, who was named as an assistant attorney general.

State Gets Second Suffragan Bishop

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Rev. Harry Lee Doll, rector of Old St. Paul's Church, tomorrow becomes suffragan bishop of the diocese of Maryland—the second in history.

The consecration ceremony will be held in the Baltimore church Rev. Doll has served since 1942. The consecrator will be Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherill, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church.

Co-consecrators in the ceremony will be Rt. Rev. Frederick D. Goodwin, bishop of Virginia, and Bishop Noble C. Powell of Maryland.

Dr. Doll's election as suffragan bishop stemmed from a request Bishop Powell made last November when he asked for a suffragan to relieve him of some of the administrative burden.

Unionists Charge Illegal Checkoff

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP)—Members of a CIO United Auto Workers local at Hagerstown have filed charges with the National Labor Relations board contending $5 is being taken from their paychecks each month illegally.

Donald Moynahan and Walter H. Russell, members of UAW-CIO Local 842, signed the charges.

They said in the declaration the money was a union assessment to finance a possible strike in the auto industry. Local 842 workers are employed at the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. plant in Hagerstown.

The charge said union officers told the company to withhold the $5 a month from employes under dues checkoff until further notice. Regular dues are $2.50.

The complainants said the membership of the local voted down the increase in March but local delegates voted for it at a national convention in Cleveland a month later.

D. C.'s First '55 Polio Case

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The city's first case of polio this season was reported today. The patient is a four-year-old boy. Officials at Childrens Hospital said he had not received vaccine.

Stage Is Set For Test Of Dog Quarantine Order

DENTON, Md., May 23 (AP) — A police chief was convicted today of failing to keep his dog tied, laying the foundation for a court test of the State's right to order a dog quarantine in Caroline County.

The State Board of Agriculture ordered a 90-day quarantine beginning April 15.

Magistrate W. A. Stewart Wright fined Chief Frank Dennis of Denton $1 and costs, and then suspended it.

K. Thomas Everngam, attorney for the chief and the newly-organized Caroline County Hounds and Hunters Assn. said the conviction would be appealed to the Circuit Court.

Dr. Edward G. Riley, county health officer, had said earlier the test was being set up.

What does it mean to "diversify" your investments?

Question submitted by Thomas J. Marks, Allen Park, Mich., Engineer.

It means that you don't put all your eggs in one basket . . . and it's a sound policy for many investors. You can diversify by investing in the different kinds of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange. There are common stocks (generally they've brought the largest returns over the years, but entail the most risk) and there are preferred stocks (usually less reward and less risk). And there are bonds—corporate and government—which are generally the safest of all securities, but which usually pay only a fixed rate of interest. Many people diversify their investments in all three—common stocks, preferred stocks and bonds—the ratio of one to the other depending on their objectives and personal situation. Another way to diversify is to invest in different companies, preferably in different industries.

The Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange can supply the latest available facts on listed companies and government bonds. They'll be happy to give you the information you need without cost or obligation. Let a partner or registered representative of your local Member Firm help you plan investments tailored to the amount of risk you can afford to assume.

The Ubangi women of equatorial Africa make themselves beautiful by stretching their lips to such enormous sizes that they protrude from six to ten inches from their faces.

Harry Hilleary, Weighmaster, Will Retire

The Mayor and Council yesterday accepted the resignation of Harry C. Hilleary as city weighmaster.

Hilleary applied to retire at the end of this month because of advanced age, 82, and ill health.

There was an unusual number of routine orders facing council today.

Referred to Finance Commissioner John J. Long was the request of Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, for the city to take a program ad in its Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia convention program. The convention will be held here next month.

Approved was a donation of $350 to the Salvation Army.

Payment of $43,893.90 to Moyer Brothers, of Altoona, representing the second partial payment for work on the sewage treatment plant in the South End was authorized.

With Commissioner Long voting "no," council authorized City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson to charge the Cumberland Urban Development Bond fund with the cost of lowering a water line and installing 164 feet of line and such other services rendered by the Water Department in connection with the Frederick Street paving project. Cost involved totaled $11,076.95.

Long Explains Stand

Long said he voted no because he believed the money should have come out of the bond issue approved for the Frederick Street improvement project. It was not, he said, because he did not think the Water Department deserves the money.

Payment of $1,861.78 to Niles, Barton, Yost and Dankmeyer, Baltimore, for legal services rendered as bond counsel for the sewage treatment and flood control bond issue sale recently was approved.

Want Benches Retained

The Bicentennial committee urged that Baltimore Street benches placed there during the "old Fashioned Days" sale, be retained until the bicentennial celebration in August is completed. Buchholtz announced last week they would be retained during the summer. Commissioner William V. Keegan urged that safety features be observed in connection with the benches and he and Buchholtz were designated to work out the problem.

Buchholtz also said he would look into the possibility of drilling holes in sidewalks for the display of flags. City Attorney Finan had said the American Legion is selling flags to merchants for display and they had wanted to know if the city would drill holes and install pipe for inserting flagpoles.

Museum Branch Proposed

Mayor Roy W. Eves was empowered to find out details about a proposal to establish a branch of a proposed state museum of natural history here.

Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was granted permission to conduct its annual Buddy Poppy sale Saturday.

Council also heard a complaint from Violet Richmond, 404 Washington Street, who sent a note by her housekeeper, Mae Washington, about the bad cobblestone ruts on Paw Paw Way. Buchholtz said repairs to the street are on the schedule and it may be two or three weeks before they are undertaken.

Buchholtz was authorized to advertise for bids for the razing of eight dwellings sold to the city by Robert S. Wilkinson. The building sites, also on Riverview Place, are needed for the flood control project.

Although some lizards take readily to water, none are 100 per cent acquatic.

Four Gas, Oil Leases Are Filed

Four more leases on tracts of land in the eastern part of Allegany county were filed at the Court House yesterday by the Columbian Carbon Company, a Delaware firm, providing the drilling for either oil or gas.

A total of 1,485 acres are covered in the leases. The documents filed yesterday list the rights of both parties to the leases and provides for the payment of royalties on any oil or gas found.

The Cumberland Outdoor Club leased two separate tracts, one of 176 acres and the other 187 acres on its property.

The Cumberland Real Estate Corporation leased 317 acres to the Columbian firm; Merrill A Yonker, Little Orleans, leased 65 acres, and Alice A. Mueller, RD 1, Paw Paw, leased 200 acres.

Hardware, Paint, Linoleum Dealers Are Headquarters For Do-It-Yourself Needs

These dealers are experts with years of experience. 'Beacon Wax' is highly recommended.

Hardware, paint and linoleum dealers are fast becoming the popular haven for do-it-yourself, as well as clean up, paint up and fix up needs. These dealers are, in the main, neighborhood stores that take a great personal delight in catering to the needs of their friends and neighbors.

These dealers' long years of experience in all home-owners and household supplies makes their assistance invaluable to all good homemakers. It is because of their unexcelled experience in household lines, in which waxes are such an important part, that Beacon Wax likes to sell its products through this type of dealer.

Beacon Wax Company is world renowned as the makers of one of the world's largest selling floor waxes, 'Beacon Wax.' Beacon is also the maker of the amazingly new remover for every brand of floor wax--all without any scrubbing; this product, aptly called 'Beacon All Brands Wax and Dirt Remover,' gives fine results. When it comes to paste wax, Beacon Paste Wax is a tremendous favorite amongst paste wax devotees.

'Thrill' is Beacon's new furniture wax that comes in two different shades: dark for dark furniture, light for light furniture. Without any rubbing, 'Thrill' shines all furniture to a-new-like appearance. It resists dirt and dust. All these four Beacon products are available at hardware, paint, department and linoleum stores.

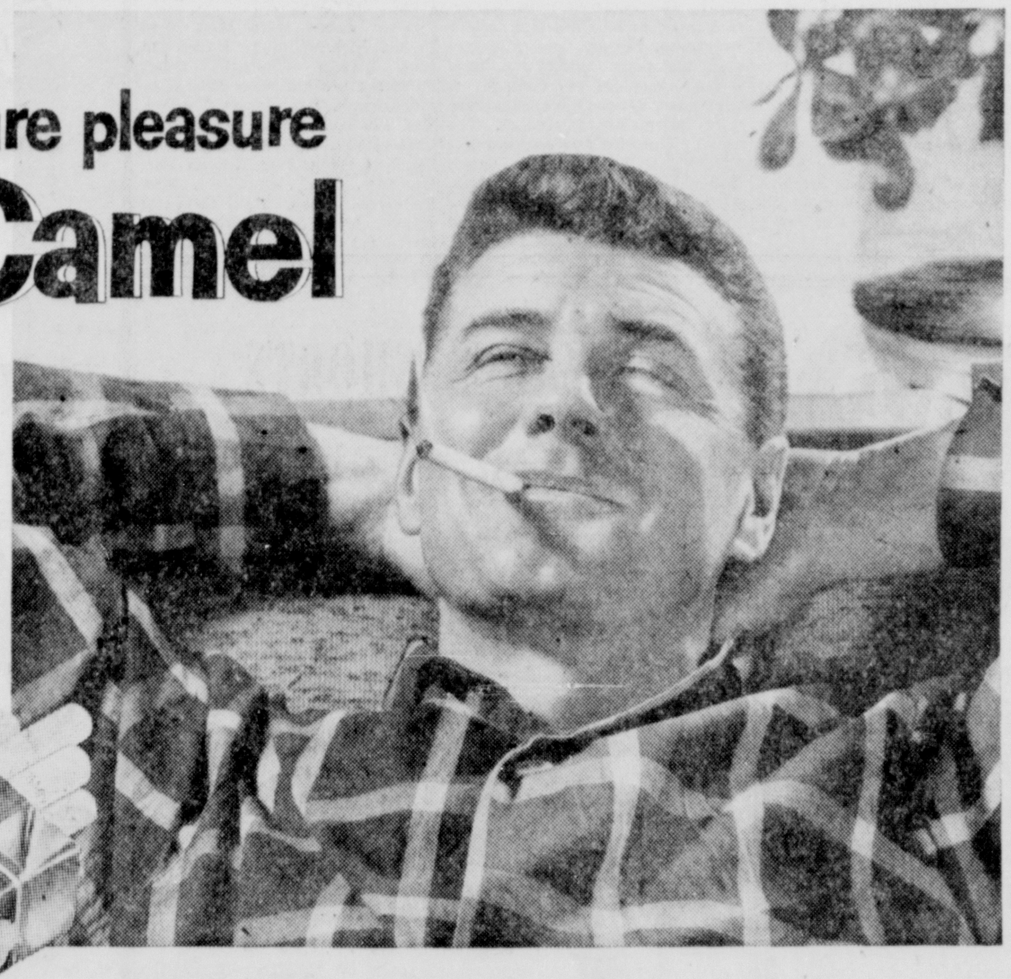
IT'S A PSYCHOLOGICAL FACT: PLEASURE HELPS YOUR DISPOSITION

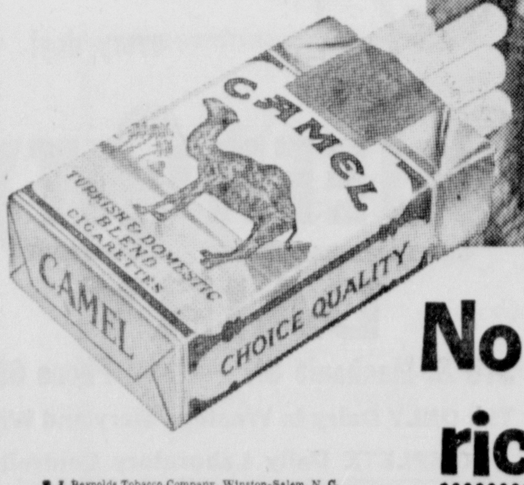
How's your disposition today?

FEEL LIKE ROARING? That's only human. Little annoyances pile up . . . you're cross and edgy — Grrr! That's why, psychology says, everyday pleasures are so important. For pleasure takes the edge off annoyances . . . helps your disposition. So, if you're a smoker, you should choose a cigarette that gives you the most pleasure. And that means Camels!

For more pure pleasure _have a Camel



CAMELS are the choice of pleasure . . . and wisdom, too! It's wise to get all the pleasure there is when you smoke. Because everyday pleasures are important. And "all the pleasure there is" means CAMELS, famous for rich flavor and mildness! No wonder Camels agree with more people than any other cigarette! Remember — the cigarette that's stingy with flavor won't give you CAMELS' pure pleasure. So . . . have a CAMEL!



No other cigarette is so rich-tasting, yet so mild!

Recipient of the branch scholarship, Miss Clover Clopper, was presented by Miss Bernice Winner, fellowship, scholarship chairman; who read a letter of appreciation from Miss Lorraine Martens, also a student of Frostburg State Teachers College.

Progress on the Frostburg Public Library was reported by Mrs. Robert Bittner, who urged those present to become members and donate books. A book drive will be conducted again on May 28.

Miss Kathleen Wolfe read the winning entries in the poetry contest, sponsored by the branch. They were "Little Things," by Roberta Lashley, sophomore at Mt. Savage High School; "My Souvenir" Joyce Smith, senior at Valley High School; and "The Windy March," Ray Metz, junior at Valley High.

Using "Women Move Forward," as her topic, Mrs. George Hanst, guest speaker for the afternoon, compared the educated women to the cultivated women, pointing out that culture begins where education ends.

The second anniversary theme was combined with the spring motif in the decorations of the table, which was centered with an arrangement of blue iris and salmon sweetpeas. Spring flowers decorated the place cards and each woman received a corsage of sweetpeas. Besides the guests there were 43 members present. The social committee was composed of Mrs. Esther Kachline, Mrs. Grace Bittner, Miss Cora Dunn, Mrs. Rachael Dunn, Mrs. Margaret Faulk, Miss Roseann Langhan and Miss Datha Thomas.

Hospitalized Children To Receive Box

Mrs. Perrin gave a brief history of the German composer who wrote the opening hymn, "Jesus Still Lead Us On." She also led in the reading of the 24th Psalm and in prayer. Letters were received from the Flintstont club inviting the group to meet June 10 in the Flintstone High School, at 8 o'clock, for a safety program. Two films are to be shown, "The Miracle of Paradise Valley" and "Motor Mania." Announcement also was made of the "Hazards in the Home" meeting at the extension office.

Following the third reading of the new by-laws they were adopted. A tour of the Celanese plant was planned for June 1, at 9:30 a.m., after which the group will have lunch in the plant cafeteria, then go on to the garden party at the home of Mrs. Harry Barton, from 2 until 4. Short Course was discussed by Mrs. Hayes Clingerman.

A home repair demonstration was given by Mrs. Samuel Clark, Mrs. Edward Lewis and Mrs. Arthur Ferguson of the Cresaptown club. Mrs. Ferguson showed the type of tools the homemakers should have handy. Mrs. Lewis demonstrated how to cut glass and repair leaky faucets.

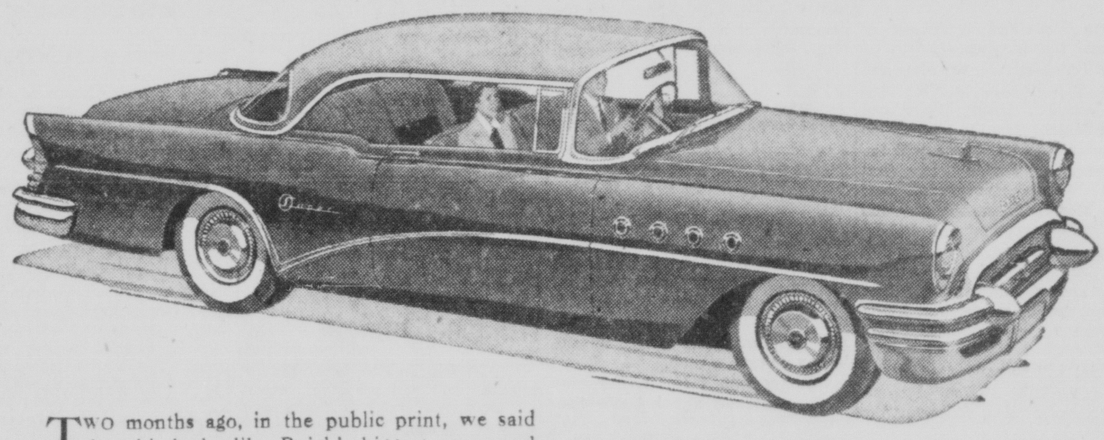
This '55 Buick must have something that folks just won't do without!



TWO months ago, in the public print, we said that this looks like Buick's biggest year—and we weren't fooling.

But what has happened—and continues to happen—is almost beyond belief.

People buy up these stunning new Buicks practically as fast as we get them from the factory. Buick production—already revised upward several times—keeps forging ahead to new highs every month to meet the mounting demand.

And Buick sales keep soaring higher and higher and higher—outstripping by far the phenomenal success of last year—the success that moved Buick into the "Big Three" of America's best sellers.

What is it about the '55 Buicks that folks by the hundreds of thousands just won't do without? It's many things.

It's styling that's boldly distinctive and fresh as tomorrow. It's beauty of line and beauty of interior décor. It's a ride that's level, firm and steady. It's a new sweetness of handling. It's great power—walloping new V8 power of record might.

But above all, it's a new kind of performance, from a new kind of automatic transmission that was born of flight thinking.

It's Variable Pitch Dynaflow*—engineered from the principle of the modern plane's switch-pitch propeller—and what it brings you in the way of pure thrill, mere words can't describe.

Just you drop in on us this very week and try it. That way you can see what a terrific automobile—and a terrific buy—the hottest-selling Buick of all time really is.

In the afternoon the boys participated in a softball game while the girls were judging baking, sewing and table settings. The boys judged potatoes, plant settings and book ends while the girls played softball.

The program was concluded with the group assembling in a circle, where they received awards for individual and club competition. The club receiving a white ribbon, with a score of 1965, was the Upstreamers Club of Waxler. Red ribbon awards were presented to the Klover Klub of Burlington with 1975 points, and the blue ribbon award for first place was presented to Reese's Mill Club, with a total of 2715 points.

County Agent Offers Advice On Pesticides

County Agent Joseph M. Steger has some advice for home gardeners who are faced with the problem of protecting plants from persistent pests from early spring until late fall.

In the past gardeners have had to stock copper sulphur, arsenate, pyrethrin, nicotine and others. While these materials are excellent pesticides if properly used they are often puzzling to the novice.

Today home gardeners with only small plots can profit and save time by buying one of the all-purpose mixtures that are now on the market. Various manufacturers have their own formulas. Some of the newest, most effective and safest ones contain Methoxychlor (insecticide), Malathion (insecticide) and Zinez (fungicide).

These materials may also be bought as dusts and applied separately or in combinations. Dusts are seldom as effective as sprays but are satisfactory if application is thorough. Steger stressed that if a good job of controlling pests is done early it should not be necessary to spray or dust close to harvest time.

Clinics Are Planned

The Health Department will hold child hygiene clinics Thursday at 10 a.m. in Frostburg and Friday at 10 a.m. in Flintstone.

A seizure clinic will be held Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in City Hall, and a chest clinic Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon in City Hall.

Court Is Asked

may be rejected, and the Mayor and Council are then required to have the work of garbage collection done directly by the city. Section 155 of the city charter is the basis of this allegation.

In no event do Sections 151 or 155, when considered either separately or together, authorize the city to re-advertise for bids, it is alleged.

The action of the mayor and council in rejecting all bids and advertising for other bids is illegal, unconstitutional and void, and beyond the powers and authority of the Mayor and Council to do so, it was concluded in the complaint.

The complainant asks for a declaratory judgment that the act of the Mayor and City Council in rejecting all bids and re-advertising for new bids is arbitrary, illegal, and without the scope of their power to do so.

It also asks that the Mayor and Council be required to accept the lowest responsible bid for the garbage contract, which shall be considered reasonable by the Mayor and Council, or in lieu thereof, if it considers the bids are excessive, that it reject all bids and have the garbage collection work done by the city.

Milton Lee Sarver, club president, said that Lynn Walker, local representative of the Traffic Safety Commission, arranged to obtain the films.

Club members will be able to see the stock car races Saturday night at the Jennerstown (Pa.) race track without charge, Sarver also reported. Jennerstown is about 10 miles north of Somerset on U.S. Route 219. Three stock cars belonging to club members will compete in the races next Sunday at Deep Creek Lake.

Local Man Earns Pontiac Belt Honor

Wilbur George, Bedford Road, has been named the outstanding parts and accessories manager of 1954 among Pontiac dealerships in the Pittsburgh zone. He was awarded a hand-tooled leather belt with a silver and gold buckle set with one diamond.

In announcing the award, A. L. Drury, national parts manager for the Pontiac Motor Division, said it was based on management ability, sales promotion, inventory control, display, neatness, efficiency, and initiative. George is parts and accessories manager for Spoerl's Garage in Cumberland.

may be rejected, and the Mayor and Council are then required to have the work of garbage collection done directly by the city. Section 155 of the city charter is the basis of this allegation.

In no event do Sections 151 or 155, when considered either separately or together, authorize the city to re-advertise for bids, it is alleged.

The action of the mayor and council in rejecting all bids and advertising for other bids is illegal, unconstitutional and void, and beyond the powers and authority of the Mayor and Council to do so, it was concluded in the complaint.

The complainant asks for a declaratory judgment that the act of the Mayor and City Council in rejecting all bids and re-advertising for new bids is arbitrary, illegal, and without the scope of their power to do so.

It also asks that the Mayor and Council be required to accept the lowest responsible bid for the garbage contract, which shall be considered reasonable by the Mayor and Council, or in lieu thereof, if it considers the bids are excessive, that it reject all bids and have the garbage collection work done by the city.

Power Companies Due The Credit

The tremendous electric power plant at Kyger Creek, near Gallipolis, Ohio, and its even larger sister plant at Clifty Creek, near Madison, Ind., are tributes to the ingenuity and ability of America's private power companies.

We were privileged on Friday to tour the huge, partly completed Kyger Creek plant as it was unveiled to some 500 newsmen and power company representatives from as far away as Illinois, New York and Tennessee.

What this group saw and heard is enough to stagger the imagination.

Both plants, Kyger Creek and Clifty Creek, upon completion, will supply power to the Atomic Energy Commission's Portsmouth Area Project, roughly midway between the two, for the purpose of isotopic separation and gaseous diffusion in the stockpiling of U-235, the only stuff that can set off and sustain a chain reaction necessary in atomic energy.

The Kyger Creek plant will have five units with a capacity of 215,000 kilowatts each, or more than the normal capacity required by the Potomac Edison Company to meet the needs of all of its customers in western Maryland, northern Virginia, parts of seven counties in southern Pennsylvania and the eastern panhandle of West Virginia. Clifty Creek will have one additional unit, also of 215,000 kilowatts capacity.

Predominating at these two plants, we suppose, are the tremendous size and capacity, but the ability of 15 power companies to work together as one in financing and application of skill to these projects likewise is somewhat astounding. Cost runs close to $400,000,000, and the Potomac Edison Company, smallest of the 15 power companies participating, has a five per cent interest in both OVEC—Ohio Valley Electric Corporation—which is building and operating the Kyger Creek plant, and IKEC—Indiana-Kentucky Electric Corporation—which is building and operating the plant at Clifty Creek.

Philip Sporn, president of both OVEC and IKEC and also of American Gas and Electric, pointed out that the two plants not only are the largest ever built by private industry but also the most efficient, each capable of producing one kilowatt hour of electricity on about .7 of a pound of coal. Cost has been lowered to a point where the government, which has contracted to use all of the power produced, can expect to save $1,000,000 a year under what it first expected to pay.

While the size is gigantic, another astonishing fact is that only 500 employes will be necessary to operate both of these power plants, slightly more than half of them at Clifty Creek.

These two plants indeed are symbols of our time and likewise are monuments to the possibilities of private enterprise in America.

These Days

The March Of Progress

Truly this is a wonderful age and if one lives long enough he will see everything. It is not only the atom and hydrogen bombs that stir the imagination, but I received a notice of a "Hair Center" serviced by men. I thought that all barbers were men and by their voices and their conversation and similar overt indications, I never doubted it. And since infancy, a barber shop has been a pleasant enough place to go to, but maybe in these modern times, we shall call them "Hair Centers."

Artchil Gourielli, who is actually opening this "Hair Center—serviced by men," says that his is the first of its kind. Never having heard a barber shop called a "Hair Center" before, I realized that here indeed was something new like the "Nautilus" or the Salk vaccine or co-existence, which are all indications that human ingenuity never ceases and that still greater wonders are in the offing.

Anyhow, this "Hair Center" will provide skin and scalp treatment to make men good looking which is a response to the age of glamour. Even candidates for the Presidency must henceforth be glamorously photogenic to please their television audiences. No longer is a man to puff out his hairy chest to prove his manhood in the manner of Hemingway or to show the enormity of his muscles like a statuesque Sandow. Rather his face is to be browned like a Miami Zoroastrian or dulled to avoid glare in the camera. In this way he is not only to be good-looking but also comfortable.

It is also said that young-looking men have the widest opportunities for professional success, which shows how ignorant most of us are, because it used to be said that to succeed one had to know something, work hard, be thrifty and even honest. Surely neither Abraham Lincoln nor Albert Einstein were very good-looking or even young-looking but they both were successful, each after his fashion. In fact, many of the most successful men that ever lived cared little about whether each hair lay upon the stately dome as though it were shellacked. Of course, men might imitate the teen-agers and wear a horse's tail or revert to the older Chinese custom of braiding their hair into a pig's tail.

They have a job in this progressive barber shop which they call a contour hair-cut. I do not quite know why that is different from any other hair-cut because when the barber clips the hair, he must follow some kind of a contour, for the simple reason that the hair is on the head which is more or less like the side of a hill, except for those who have flat heads and they are very few in these parts. The style called a "crew cut" does make fine-looking boys resemble German military officers who in World War I were supposed to have flat heads, particularly when we were conducting a universal propaganda against them. Now that our own sons have copied their hair-cut, we approve, which shows how public opinion can change with the shift of the wind on this or any other subject.

I also note that a complete color range is carried for old-looking and graying heads. This is the last word in human progress. We no longer have any gray beards because we do not have beards. Now we are not to have distinguished-looking men whose silvery hair gives the appearance, if not the substance, of wisdom and experience. Every man will color his hair perhaps to match his wife's. By using dyes out of the same batch, unity will be restored in the household and thus will be solved some of our most serious problems, such as the high divorce rate, broken homes and juvenile delinquency.

In fact, the press agent who sent me the account of this new wonder says that "the accuracy of color matching is fantastic," as it well might be. With industry and commerce cutting off men in their prime by retiring those who have the greatest experience in favor of those who have the least, it will now be possible for the aged to become juvenile by having their hair properly dyed—perhaps a platinum blond. Sclerosis and senility will thus be denied their victims.

One thing is missing in this great advance of the human race. Nothing is said about painting the finger nails according to one's politics — blue for Republicans, pink for the Democrats, and a deep maroon for those who do not know better.

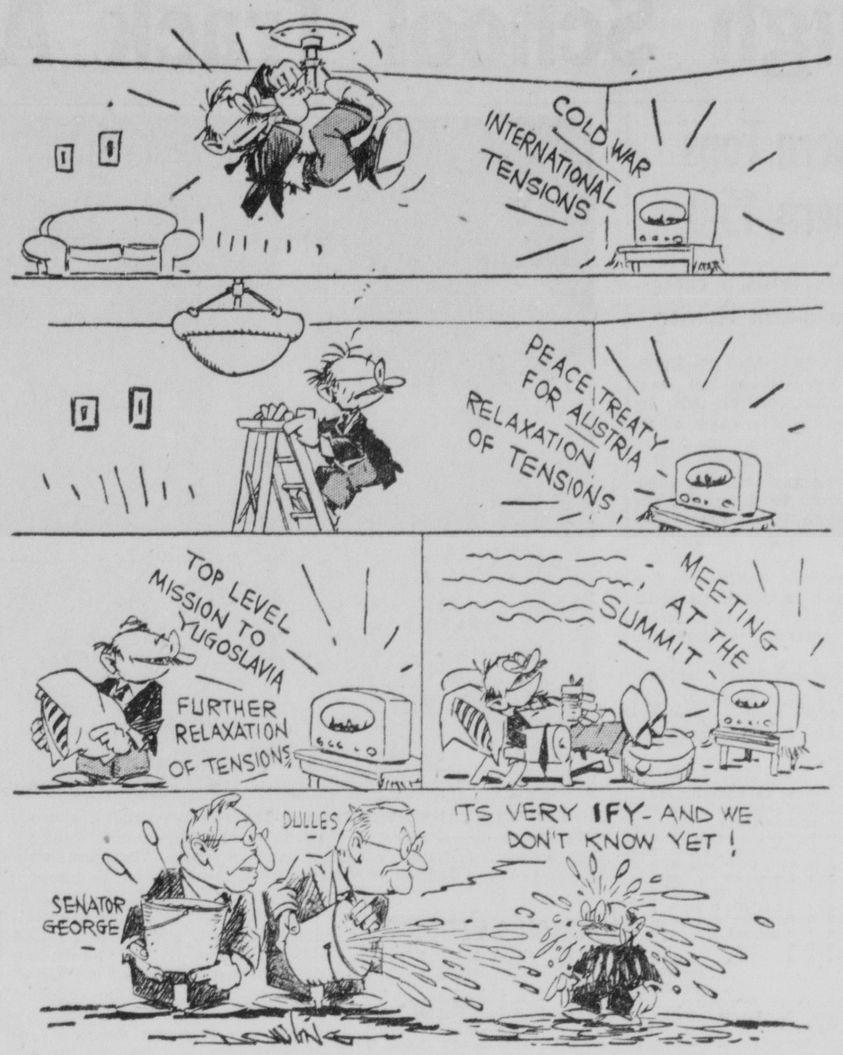
Now Don't Get Too Relaxed



Election In Britain Remindful Of American Campaigns

By David Lawrence

LONDON—Except for the British accent and the different names of the candidates and the parties, this might well be a presidential election campaign in the United States. For they have everything here, including the photogenic Anthony Eden sitting like Eisenhower with arms folded before the television camera as he delivers in the best Stevenson manner an impromptu address telling how his heart beats for the people.

They even have a rhubarb going on in the press here about the accuracy or inaccuracy of Gallup polls. The Socialist Laborites, being the side that is expected to lose the election according to the public opinion polls, don't, of course, think much of the technique, while the Conservative party leaders all think it must be accurate and are warning their supporters not to become victims of so much overconfidence as to forget to vote.

Not A Game

"An election isn't a game," warns Herbert Morrison, who was foreign secretary in the Attlee cabinet when the Socialist Labor party was last in power. "It isn't a kind of a gigantic football match. It is a very serious thing. . . . It would be a pity if what is meant to be a grave constitutional duty and function should be reduced in the minds of the people to a kind of exercise in speculation."

Mr. Morrison said he had nothing, to be sure, against polls or pollsters as such, for he added that "after all, everybody is a bit of a pollster." But he objected to the use to which polls were put and the way they were presented to the public. He deplored the display "across several columns" in the newspapers of what he felt were avowedly estimates based on a "limited range of samples." Then he reminded his audience about the 1948 election in the United States, when Mr. Truman was elected despite polls that indicated he would be defeated.

All this has a familiar ring. So also have the main arguments in the speeches. The big issues, to be sure, are "peace and prosperity," as we know them in America, but over here they don't rely so much on slogans. They hammer home their points in considerable detail.

Sir Anthony Eden, whose continuance as prime minister depends on the outcome of the election next Thursday, told a nationwide audience on television over the weekend that all the issues that he had explained in his speech, important as they were in different spheres, were dominated by one which was the greatest of them all: "Can we maintain peace?" He then repeated with emphasis the word "peace." As he moved along easily and informally in his talk, he said:

"I know there are some people who are saying this is a dull election. I have not found it dull. Anyway, I don't think slanging matches help us very much. I think there is perhaps another explanation which I found rather well expressed in the Socialist Weekly yesterday, which read, 'Labor votes are not easily aroused when the country, generally speaking, is prosperous.' Well, of course that is true, the country is prosperous and we all know it and rejoice at it."

Class Prejudices Too

Nor is this campaign devoid of the same class prejudices which stump speakers use in the United States. Eden hit back at that sort of thing when he said:

"We must make up our minds that our object is to create new wealth and share out that new wealth as widely as we can among the people, instead of squabbling about what remains of the old wealth."

Another speech reminiscent of American campaigning was delivered over the week end by R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, whose leadership on the economic side has enabled the Conservatives to point with pride to the good times the British people have enjoyed as compared with the days when the Socialist Labor party prolonged rationing of food far beyond the period of controls in the United States. Mr. Butler pledged that "monopolies" would not be tolerated, nor would "price-rigging," which is the British translation of "price-fixing" as used in the anti-trust vocabulary at Washington. But the man who runs the British treasury said frankly that his party would not hesitate to "reward success and cut loose cramping restrictions on human endeavors."

Mr. Butler claimed that his party has "restored national solvency" as well as "personal initiative and opportunity." Both he and his associates keep reminding the electorate about the Socialist Labor program for state ownership of industries, which is called "nationalization" over here — something which doesn't seem to be as popular even with the Socialist Labor party as it was just a few years ago.

The Socialist Labor party speakers concede that times are bitter but, like the Democrats in the United States, they gloomily see disaster ahead. As for progress on the peace front, the Socialist Labor party spokesmen claim that, if anything has been accomplished, it is due to the prodding by the Labor party in Parliament.

All in all, it feels here like an American political campaign with the same issues that may be acclaimed by the Republicans in 1956 if our nation is still at peace and still enjoys prosperity.

Baering Down On The News

Postal employes boost would cost government $178,000,000 a year. We concede that isn't hay. But they aren't mules.

This writer has been slugging for more take-home loot for letter carriers since 1916. And got no more spark than fanning a moonbeam with his hat.

For some morose reason Postmaster General Summerfield is dead set against it. That kind of thinking can be returned for insufficient postage.

That kind of thinking isn't official because it happen to be dated. It is third class.

You can go back to Ovid for mention of the first post. In his Metamorphoses he tells us Taurosthense released a pigeon stained purple to let his father at Aegina know he had been crowned victor in the Olympics.

Cyrus started a riding post in 599 B.C. and Charlemagne in 807 A.D. In 1653 M. de Velayer originated a penny-stamp envelope service and put up boxes at principal street intersections.

The postal system in America started in 1710 when a letter cost a silver shilling from London to New York. After that it was carried inland for 60 miles for four pence extra.

Psoriasis Healthy Person's Disease But Embarrassing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Psoriasis is a healthy person's disease but few victims are consoled by this fact because the condition is embarrassing to have and difficult to eliminate. It affects both sexes and usually begins in early adulthood when appearance is important. The earlier treatment is started, the better.

The most popular remedies are products containing mercury and tar. Chrysarobin is said to be one of the best but it is messy, stains skin and clothing, and irritates the eyelids. For this reason, it should not be applied to the face, ears or scalp.

A British dermatologist, using a related drug, claims to have cleared up the eruption of psoriasis in two to three weeks in all but a few patients. Because his treatment is complicated, it is best done in a hospital. Patients first soak in a warm bath for 10 minutes, followed by exposure to ultra-violet light.

The lesions are then covered with a compound containing Lassar's paste and dithranol—dioxyanthranol—the chemical in question. This powerful oxidizing agent becomes active as soon as it contacts the skin and literally burns off the psoriatic eruptions. Care is taken to protect the normal surrounding skin.

The dithranol onitment is prepared with equal parts of soft paraffin to make the paste stiff. When the outbreak is widespread, a softer ointment is needed, which is milder in its reaction. Moreover, it is more practical to use, especially in areas where the skin is thrown into folds.

A pomade containing, dithranol among other ingredients is used on the scalp. The British physician advocates early treatment, preferably within a few weeks of onset. The outcome varies considerably but from 10 to 25 per cent clear for long periods of time, possibly for life. The remainder suffer recurrences after months or years of relief.

In this country, the most popular remedies are ointments containing tar or mercury with salicylic acid, combined with ultraviolet light. The latter is the common denominator and many victims of psoriasis find they are better in summer when Old Sol is at his best. The chemicals make the skin more sensitive to the sun's rays and in this respect, enhance the value of treatment.

Psoriasis usually begins with a bright red spot that soon becomes covered with adherent dry silvery scales. The lesions vary from pinpoint to large patches over extensive areas. Removal of the scales leaves a moist surface with numerous tiny bleeding points. The scalp is the most common site, followed in turn by knees, elbows, and nails.

TOMORROW: Infectious mononucleosis.

NOT SO

Mrs. Z. writes. My sister-in-law read that there is now one allergy test available that tells right away everything the person is sensitive to. Since I'm having all kinds of scratch tests to find my allergies, I'm most anxious to learn about a simpler method.

REPLY

I wish such a test were available but there isn't.

NOT GEOGRAPHIC

Mrs. D. writes: My son suffers from itching in various areas and when he scratches, big welts appear. The doctor says he has geographic skin. Can you tell me something about this condition?

REPLY

Your physician must have said dermographic skin, which is considered a physical allergy. With pressure or friction, hivelike lesions appear. Have you determined the cause of the boy's original itching?

NICOTINE AND ALCOHOL

R. W. writes: Which damages the body most: smoking or drinking?

REPLY

The answer depends upon whether smoking and drinking are done in excess or in moderation. It's a tossup between the chain smoker and the alcoholic but for those who use both in moderation, smoking would be more harmful because nicotine irritates the respiratory passageways and disturbs circulation.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Air Force Warning On Russian Power Scrapped At Behest Of White House

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here is the amazing inside story of the Air Force mix-up over whether we are ahead of Russia or Russia is ahead of us in air power.

Called before a closed-door Senate committee meeting, General Nathan Twining, chief of staff for air, and General Woodbury Burgess, chief of Air Force intelligence, both denied that Russia was ahead of the United States.

However, here is what happened before they walked in to face the senators.

Earlier, General Twining had prepared a speech to be delivered in Los Angeles on Armed Forces Day, May 21, giving a solemn warning that Russia had made terrific progress and might be forging ahead of the United States in air power.

On the same day, Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbott also planned to deliver a "block-buster" speech warning the American people that we were falling behind Russia.

However, he was called off by President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson. Both had recently denied that the United States was falling behind Russia, and Talbott was told that a speech by him to the contrary would not be politic.

"W don't want to alarm the public," was the advice he got from the two top men responsible for the nation's defense.

Speeches Are Scrapped

Talbott meanwhile had heard of Twining's proposed speech at Los Angeles and called the Air Force chief in. He did not order Twining to change his speech. But he did say he'd got word from Secretary Wilson not to alarm the public, and that, accordingly, he, Talbott, had rewritten his speech. He also pointed out that he and Twining would be in the embarrassing position of giving opposite speeches on the same day unless Twining also rewrote his speech.

It was further recalled that Senator Symington, the Missouri Democrat and secretary for air in the Truman administration, had publicly charged that the United States was falling behind Russia. For General Twining to side with Symington, therefore, would be highly embarrassing to the Eisenhower administration.

So General Twining tore up his Los Angeles speech and wrote a new one.

While this was going on in Washington, General Burgess, intelligence chief of the Continental Air Defense Command, made his now-famous speech in Detroit stating in effect that Russian air might be ahead of the USA.

Jets Over Moscow

Burgess and Symington, together with Twining and Talbott, had based their worry on the jet bombers U. S. observers had seen in Russia. This column first reported on April 26 that "the power pendulum is swinging over toward Soviet Russia as far as air strength is concerned. . . . This May Day the Russians will have 15 giant type-37 jets. In contrast we had two B-52 jet bombers of the same size a year ago. Today we have only three. In other words, the Russians are outproducing us 14 to one!"

Ten days later this was confirmed by a Defense Department spokesman. On May 18, however, Eisenhower said just the opposite.

"It is just not true," he told a press conference, that we "have lost in a twinkling" all our great technical advantages.

General Burgess, however, is an intelligence officer who knew what the intelligence reports were from Moscow. He also knew that the Russian pilots had flown their new jets right over the American embassy 13 times, virtually thumbing their noses at the American ambassador. So he gave an unvarnished speech before the American Legion in Detroit.

Actually his facts were correct and his conclusions were correct, but he got an immediate call from General Twining in Washington.

"If you'd said it two weeks ago, or if you'd said it two weeks later, it might have been all right," the Air Force chief said. "But coming at this time, you've got us into trouble."

What Did Burgess Say?

General Burgess then went with General Twining and Secretary Talbott to face the Senate Armed Services Committee where in secret session he claimed the Associated Press had misquoted him. This column is able to reveal what he told the senators he had said in Detroit.

"The Russians are not 12 feet tall with an A-bomb in both hands," General Burgess said he said. "They are also not three feet tall. Actually they're 5 feet 10 inches tall and weigh 175 pounds. We should neither over-estimate nor under-estimate them. They're just as smart as we are and maybe smarter."

Those present at the Detroit meeting claim Burgess further stated:

"They have an air force just as good as ours or maybe better."

Back at the Pentagon after facing the senators, General Burgess was called in to see Secretary of Defense Wilson. He expected to be bawled out. Instead Wilson was mild and cordial.

"Welcome," he said, "to the foot-in-mouth club."

And he took the general over to a corner of his office to inspect a collection of cartoons lampooning Wilson for his bird-dogs and kennel-dogs statement and various other malaprops.

NOTE—Out of all this came an order by General Twining for a complete review of the U. S. air program to see just exactly where we stand.

Anthony Eden's Jitters

Diplomatic cables report that Prime Minister Anthony Eden is suffering from a bad case of pre-election jitters even though all polls show his Conservative party out in front.

Eden called a special meeting of his brain trust last week to warn that the Labor party would launch a last minute whispering campaign involving the hydrogen bomb in a desperate maneuver to catch up. Eden said word is to be passed around that a Conservative victory will mean a hydrogen bomb war in two years which will wipe Britain off the map.

Despite these last minute jitters, I still predict Eden's Conservatives will win the election on Thursday and increase their margin in Parliament.

Position Of Strength?

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

There is now a settled, official, Eisenhower Administration theory to explain the apparent change in the Soviet policy line. This "school solution" of the puzzle of Soviet policy was succinctly stated by the President himself at his most recent press conference, when he was asked about the Big Four meeting:

"Now, as I say and Secretary Dulles said, we are approaching this thing from a greater position of strength than we ever had before."

To put it very simply, the official Administration theory is that the Russians are being nicer because we are stronger. But there is a minority of skeptical officials who privately reject this official theory outright. They believe, instead, that the Russians are being nicer because they are stronger — and because they want to have time to become stronger still.

At the same press conference, the President suggested one reason why the official doctrine is doubted by these skeptics. He was asked whether he was "startled" by the Soviet air developments revealed in the recent flights over Moscow before and after May Day. He replied:

"I believe this: that from time to time, in several lines of endeavor, scientific endeavor, aircraft, and others, there has come in evidence that exceeded predictions of what — where they would be at any particular moment."

In other words, our Intelligence was caught by surprise by the rapid development of Soviet air power as revealed by the Moscow over-flights. As the President also implied, this was by no means the first time. Our Intelligence has consistently underestimated Soviet scientific - military capabilities, most notably in the case of the Soviet atomic and thermonuclear bombs, but in other instances as well.

It just does not make sense, the skeptics maintain, to suppose that the Russians are being rendered docile by a "greater position of strength than we have ever had before," when Soviet scientific-military achievements have been so rapid that they have repeatedly caught our Intelligence flat-footed.

It makes more sense, they maintain, to suppose that precisely the opposite is true. After all, we know beyond question that the Soviets achieved their first atomic bomb, their first thermonuclear bomb, and their first heavy intercontinental jet bomber, in less time than we required to produce the equivalent. In all three cases, we had a head start, so that we are — we hope — still ahead in nuclear stockpiling and about even in heavy jet bomber production.

But we had no head start at all in one key field — missiles, on which the Soviets have been working feverishly since the war. The intercontinental ballistic missile, against which there is no known defense at all, is the big prize in the race for air-atomic supremacy.

"Suppose," one of the dissenters from the position-of-strength theory has said, "that the Russians knew for certain they would have enough IBMs to knock out our strategic airforce, say by 1958. Wouldn't they want to be very sure that no war broke out before 1958?"

This may be too simple and too sinister an explanation of the sudden seeming softness of the Soviets. But at least it provides a useful corrective to the happy notion that the United States and its allies have somehow suddenly achieved a position of unchallengeable strength. A very good case could be made for the thesis that we were better off in 1949, the year when Louis Johnson was hacking away at our defenses, and Europe was totally undefended, than we are now.

Since 1949 Communist China has emerged as a great imperialist power and the Western position in Asia has been perhaps fatally weakened. Europe still cannot be held against a really determined Communist assault, and effective German rearmament, which would render Europe defensible, is still several years away. But, above all, the air-atomic equation has turned against us.

We had only a few hundred medium powered atomic bombs in 1949, but they were enough to destroy all major Soviet targets. This continent was invulnerable to Soviet attack. Now, according to the Administration's own official estimates, the Soviets have an air defense well ahead of ours, a strategic air force rapidly catching up with ours, and a nuclear stockpile sufficient to Soviet strategic needs.

It is true that the signing of the Paris accords has given the Western Allies a new and very useful diplomatic bargaining counter. It is true that the Western Allies are reasonably united and economically healthy. But if you think in hard terms of existing power, it is difficult to go along with the Administration theory that our "position of strength" is forcing the Russians to seek a settlement. For strength, after all, is a relative thing, as those heavy jet bombers in the skies over Moscow should serve to remind us.

Power Companies Due The Credit

The tremendous electric power plant at Kyger Creek, near Gallipolis, Ohio, and its even larger sister plant at Clifty Creek, near Madison, Ind., are tributes to the ingenuity and ability of America's private power companies.

We were privileged on Friday to tour the huge, partly completed Kyger Creek plant as it was unveiled to some 500 newsmen and power company representatives from as far away as Illinois, New York and Tennessee.

What this group saw and heard is enough to stagger the imagination.

Both plants, Kyger Creek and Clifty Creek, upon completion, will supply power to the Atomic Energy Commission's Portsmouth Area Project, roughly midway between the two, for the purpose of isotopic separation and gaseous diffusion in the stockpiling of U-235, the only stuff that can set off and sustain a chain reaction necessary in atomic energy.

The Kyger Creek plant will have five units with a capacity of 215,000 kilowatts each, or more than the normal capacity required by the Potomac Edison Company to meet the needs of all of its customers in western Maryland, northern Virginia, parts of seven counties in southern Pennsylvania and the eastern panhandle of West Virginia. Clifty Creek will have one additional unit, also of 215,000 kilowatts capacity.

Predominating at these two plants, we suppose, are the tremendous size and capacity, but the ability of 15 power companies to work together as one in financing and application of skill to these projects likewise is somewhat astounding. Cost runs close to $400,000,000, and the Potomac Edison Company, smallest of the 15 power companies participating, has a five per cent interest in both OVEC—Ohio Valley Electric Corporation—which is building and operating the Kyger Creek plant, and IKEC—Indiana-Kentucky Electric Corporation—which is building and operating the plant at Clifty Creek.

Philip Sporn, president of both OVEC and IKEC and also of American Gas and Electric, pointed out that the two plants not only are the largest ever built by private industry but also the most efficient, each capable of producing one kilowatt hour of electricity on about .7 of a pound of coal. Cost has been lowered to a point where the government, which has contracted to use all of the power produced, can expect to save $1,000,000 a year under what it first expected to pay.

While the size is gigantic, another astonishing fact is that only 500 employes will be necessary to operate both of these power plants, slightly more than half of them at Clifty Creek.

These two plants indeed are symbols of our time and likewise are monuments to the possibilities of private enterprise in America.

The March Of Progress

Truly this is a wonderful age and if one lives long enough he will see everything. It is not only the atom and hydrogen bombs that stir the imagination, but I received a notice of a "Hair Center" serviced by men. I thought that all barbers were men and by their voices and their conversation and similar overt indications, I never doubted it. And since infancy, a barber shop has been a pleasant enough place to go to, but maybe in these modern times, we shall call them "Hair Centers."

Artchil Gourielli, who is actually opening this "Hair Center—serviced by men," says that his is the first of its kind. Never having heard a barber shop called a "Hair Center" before, I realized that here indeed was something new like the "Nautilus" or the Salk vaccine or co-existence, which are all indications that human ingenuity never ceases and that still greater wonders are in the offing.

Anyhow, this "Hair Center" will provide skin and scalp treatment to make men good looking which is a response to the age of glamour. Even candidates for the Presidency must henceforth be glamorously photogenic to please their television audiences. No longer is a man to puff out his hairy chest to prove his manhood in the manner of Hemingway or to show the enormity of his muscles like a statuesque Sandow. Rather his face is to be browned like a Miami Zoroastrian or dulled to avoid glare in the camera. In this way he is not only to be good-looking but also comfortable.

It is also said that young-looking men have the widest opportunities for professional success, which shows how ignorant most of us are, because it used to be said that to succeed one had to know something, work hard, be thrifty and even honest. Surely neither Abraham Lincoln nor Albert Einstein were very good-looking or even young-looking but they both were successful, each after his fashion. In fact, many of the most successful men that ever lived cared little about whether each hair lay upon the stately dome as though it were shellacked. Of course, men might imitate the teen-agers and wear a horse's tail or revert to the older Chinese custom of braiding their hair into a pig's tail.

They have a job in this progressive barber shop which they call a contour hair-cut. I do not quite know why that is different from any other hair-cut because when the barber clips the hair, he must follow some kind of a contour, for the simple reason that the hair is on the head which is more or less like the side of a hill, except for those who have flat heads and they are very few in these parts. The style called a "crew cut" does make fine-looking boys resemble German military officers who in World War I were supposed to have flat heads, particularly when we were conducting a universal propaganda against them. Now that our own sons have copied their hair-cut, we approve, which shows how public opinion can change with the shift of the wind on this or any other subject.

I also note that a complete color range is carried for old-looking and graying heads. This is the last word in human progress. We no longer have any gray beards because we do not have beards. Now we are not to have distinguished-looking men whose silvery hair gives the appearance, if not the substance, of wisdom and experience. Every man will color his hair perhaps to match his wife's. By using dyes out of the same batch, unity will be restored in the household and thus will be solved some of our most serious problems, such as the high divorce rate, broken homes and juvenile delinquency.

In fact, the press agent who sent me the account of this new wonder says that "the accuracy of color matching is fantastic," as it well might be. With industry and commerce cutting off men in their prime by retiring those who have the greatest experience in favor of those who have the least, it will now be possible for the aged to become juvenile by having their hair properly dyed—perhaps a platinum blond. Sclerosis and senility will thus be denied their victims.

One thing is missing in this great advance of the human race. Nothing is said about painting the finger nails according to one's politics — blue for Republicans, pink for the Democrats, and a deep maroon for those who do not know better.

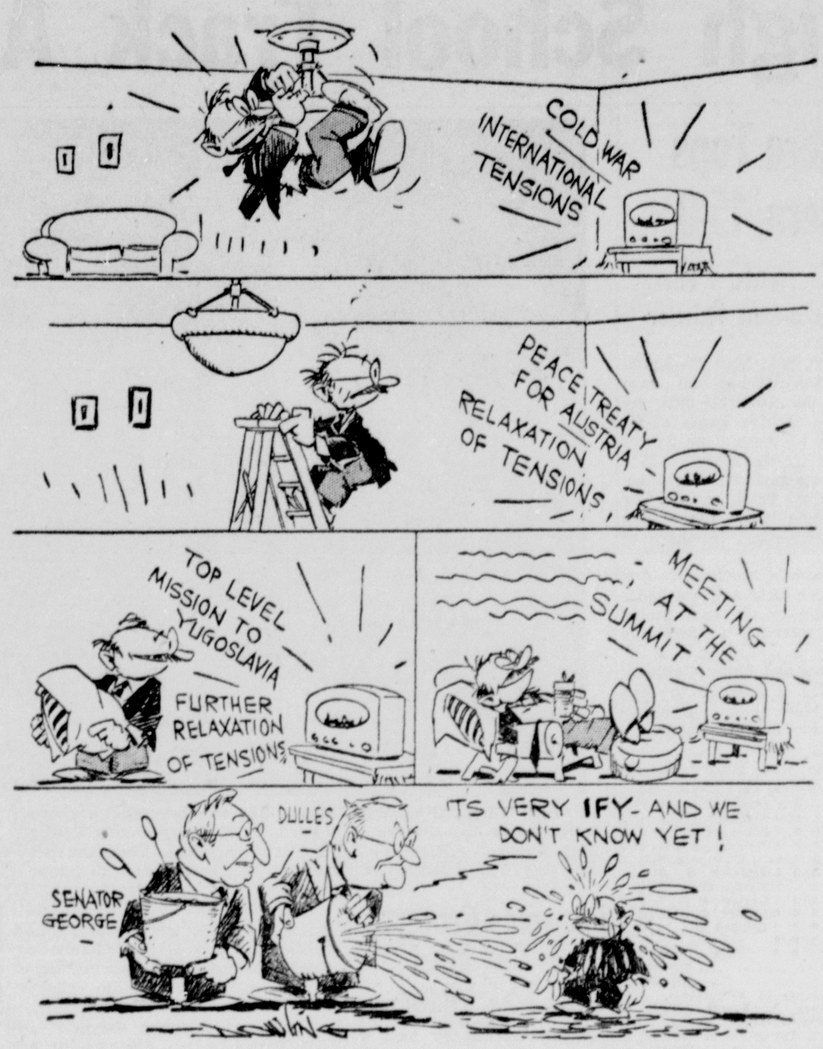
Now Don't Get Too Relaxed



Election In Britain Remindful Of American Campaigns

By David Lawrence

LONDON—Except for the British accent and the different names of the candidates and the parties, this might well be a presidential election campaign in the United States. For they have everything here, including the photogenic Anthony Eden sitting like Eisenhower with arms folded before the television camera as he delivers in the best Stevenson manner an impromptu address telling how his heart beats for the people.

They even have a rhubarb going on in the press here about the accuracy or inaccuracy of Gallup polls. The Socialist Laborites, being the side that is expected to lose the election according to the public opinion polls, don't, of course, think much of the technique, while the Conservative party leaders all think it must be accurate and are warning their supporters not to become victims of so much overconfidence as to forget to vote.

Not A Game

"An election isn't a game," warns Herbert Morrison, who was foreign secretary in the Attlee cabinet when the Socialist Labor party was last in power. "It isn't a kind of a gigantic football match. It is a very serious thing. . . . It would be a pity if what is meant to be a grave constitutional duty and function should be reduced in the minds of the people to a kind of exercise in speculation."

Mr. Morrison said he had nothing, to be sure, against polls or pollsters as such, for he added that "after all, everybody is a bit of a pollster." But he objected to the use to which polls were put and the way they were presented to the public. He deplored the display "across several columns" in the newspapers of what he felt were avowedly estimates based on a "limited range of samples." Then he reminded his audience about the 1948 election in the United States, when Mr. Truman was elected despite polls that indicated he would be defeated.

All this has a familiar ring. So also have the main arguments in the speeches. The big issues, to be sure, are "peace and prosperity," as we know them in America, but over here they don't rely so much on slogans. They hammer home their points in considerable detail.

Sir Anthony Eden, whose continuance as prime minister depends on the outcome of the election next Thursday, told a nationwide audience on television over the weekend that all the issues that he had explained in his speech, important as they were in different spheres, were dominated by one which was the greatest of them all: "Can we maintain peace?" He then repeated with emphasis the word "peace." As he moved along easily and informally in his talk, he said:

"I know there are some people who are saying this is a dull election. I have not found it dull. Anyway, I don't think slanging matches help us very much. I think there is perhaps another explanation which I found rather well expressed in the Socialist Weekly yesterday, which read, 'Labor votes are not easily aroused when the country, generally speaking, is prosperous.' Well, of course that is true, the country is prosperous and we all know it and rejoice at it."

Class Prejudices Too

Nor is this campaign devoid of the same class prejudices which stump speakers use in the United States. Eden hit back at that sort of thing when he said:

"We must make up our minds that our object is to create new wealth and share out that new wealth as widely as we can among the people, instead of squabbling about what remains of the old wealth."

Another speech reminiscent of American campaigning was delivered over the week end by R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, whose leadership on the economic side has enabled the Conservatives to point with pride to the good times the British people have enjoyed as compared with the days when the Socialist Labor party prolonged rationing of food far beyond the period of controls in the United States. Mr. Butler pledged that "monopolies" would not be tolerated, nor would "price-rigging," which is the British translation of "price-fixing" as used in the anti-trust vocabulary at Washington. But the man who runs the British treasury said frankly that his party would not hesitate to "reward success and cut loose cramping restrictions on human endeavors."

Mr. Butler claimed that his party has "restored national solvency" as well as "personal initiative and opportunity." Both he and his associates keep reminding the electorate about the Socialist Labor program for state ownership of industries, which is called "nationalization" over here — something which doesn't seem to be as popular even with the Socialist Labor party as it was just a few years ago.

The Socialist Labor party speakers concede that times are bitter but, like the Democrats in the United States, they gloomily see disaster ahead. As for progress on the peace front, the Socialist Labor party spokesmen claim that, if anything has been accomplished, it is due to the prodding by the Labor party in Parliament.

All in all, it feels here like an American political campaign with the same issues that may be acclaimed by the Republicans in 1956 if our nation is still at peace and still enjoys prosperity.

Baering Down On The News

Postal employes boost would cost government $178,000,000 a year. We concede that isn't hay. But they aren't mules.

This writer has been slugging for more take-home loot for letter carriers since 1916. And got no more spark than fanning a moonbeam with his hat.

For some morose reason Postmaster General Summerfield is dead set against it. That kind of thinking can be returned for insufficient postage.

That kind of thinking isn't official because it happen to be dated. It is third class.

You can go back to Ovid for mention of the first post. In his Metamorphoses he tells us Taurosthense released a pigeon stained purple to let his father at Aegina know he had been crowned victor in the Olympics.

Cyrus started a riding post in 599 B.C. and Charlemagne in 807 A.D. In 1653 M. de Velayer originated a penny-stamp envelope service and put up boxes at principal street intersections.

The postal system in America started in 1710 when a letter cost a silver shilling from London to New York. After that it was carried inland for 60 miles for four pence extra.

Psoriasis Healthy Person's Disease But Embarrassing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Psoriasis is a healthy person's disease but few victims are consoled by this fact because the condition is embarrassing to have and difficult to eliminate. It affects both sexes and usually begins in early adulthood when appearance is important. The earlier treatment is started, the better.

The most popular remedies are products containing mercury and tar. Chrysarobin is said to be one of the best but it is messy, stains skin and clothing, and irritates the eyelids. For this reason, it should not be applied to the face, ears or scalp.

A British dermatologist, using a related drug, claims to have cleared up the eruption of psoriasis in two to three weeks in all but a few patients. Because his treatment is complicated, it is best done in a hospital. Patients first soak in a warm bath for 10 minutes, followed by exposure to ultra-violet light.

The lesions are then covered with a compound containing Lassar's paste and dithranol—dioxyanthranol—the chemical in question. This powerful oxidizing agent becomes active as soon as it contacts the skin and literally burns off the psoriatic eruptions. Care is taken to protect the normal surrounding skin.

The dithranol onitment is prepared with equal parts of soft paraffin to make the paste stiff. When the outbreak is widespread, a softer ointment is needed, which is milder in its reaction. Moreover, it is more practical to use, especially in areas where the skin is thrown into folds.

A pomade containing, dithranol among other ingredients is used on the scalp. The British physician advocates early treatment, preferably within a few weeks of onset. The outcome varies considerably but from 10 to 25 per cent clear for long periods of time, possibly for life. The remainder suffer recurrences after months or years of relief.

In this country, the most popular remedies are ointments containing tar or mercury with salicylic acid, combined with ultraviolet light. The latter is the common denominator and many victims of psoriasis find they are better in summer when Old Sol is at his best. The chemicals make the skin more sensitive to the sun's rays and in this respect, enhance the value of treatment.

Psoriasis usually begins with a bright red spot that soon becomes covered with adherent dry silvery scales. The lesions vary from pinpoint to large patches over extensive areas. Removal of the scales leaves a moist surface with numerous tiny bleeding points. The scalp is the most common site, followed in turn by knees, elbows, and nails.

TOMORROW: Infectious mononucleosis.

NOT SO

Mrs. Z. writes. My sister-in-law read that there is now one allergy test available that tells right away everything the person is sensitive to. Since I'm having all kinds of scratch tests to find my allergies, I'm most anxious to learn about a simpler method.

REPLY

I wish such a test were available but there isn't.

NOT GEOGRAPHIC

Mrs. D. writes: My son suffers from itching in various areas and when he scratches, big welts appear. The doctor says he has geographic skin. Can you tell me something about this condition?

REPLY

Your physician must have said dermographic skin, which is considered a physical allergy. With pressure or friction, hivelike lesions appear. Have you determined the cause of the boy's original itching?

NICOTINE AND ALCOHOL

R. W. writes: Which damages the body most: smoking or drinking?

REPLY

The answer depends upon whether smoking and drinking are done in excess or in moderation. It's a tossup between the chain smoker and the alcoholic but for those who use both in moderation, smoking would be more harmful because nicotine irritates the respiratory passageways and disturbs circulation.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Air Force Warning On Russian Power Scrapped At Behest Of White House

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here is the amazing inside story of the Air Force mix-up over whether we are ahead of Russia or Russia is ahead of us in air power.

Called before a closed-door Senate committee meeting, General Nathan Twining, chief of staff for air, and General Woodbury Burgess, chief of Air Force intelligence, both denied that Russia was ahead of the United States.

However, here is what happened before they walked in to face the senators.

Earlier, General Twining had prepared a speech to be delivered in Los Angeles on Armed Forces Day, May 21, giving a solemn warning that Russia had made terrific progress and might be forging ahead of the United States in air power.

On the same day, Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbott also planned to deliver a "block-buster" speech warning the American people that we were falling behind Russia.

However, he was called off by President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson. Both had recently denied that the United States was falling behind Russia, and Talbott was told that a speech by him to the contrary would not be politic.

"W don't want to alarm the public," was the advice he got from the two top men responsible for the nation's defense.

Speeches Are Scrapped

Talbott meanwhile had heard of Twining's proposed speech at Los Angeles and called the Air Force chief in. He did not order Twining to change his speech. But he did say he'd got word from Secretary Wilson not to alarm the public, and that, accordingly, he, Talbott, had rewritten his speech. He also pointed out that he and Twining would be in the embarrassing position of giving opposite speeches on the same day unless Twining also rewrote his speech.

It was further recalled that Senator Symington, the Missouri Democrat and secretary for air in the Truman administration, had publicly charged that the United States was falling behind Russia. For General Twining to side with Symington, therefore, would be highly embarrassing to the Eisenhower administration.

So General Twining tore up his Los Angeles speech and wrote a new one.

While this was going on in Washington, General Burgess, intelligence chief of the Continental Air Defense Command, made his now-famous speech in Detroit stating in effect that Russian air might be ahead of the USA.

Jets Over Moscow

Burgess and Symington, together with Twining and Talbott, had based their worry on the jet bombers U. S. observers had seen in Russia. This column first reported on April 26 that "the power pendulum is swinging over toward Soviet Russia as far as air strength is concerned. . . . This May Day the Russians will have 15 giant type-37 jets. In contrast we had two B-52 jet bombers of the same size a year ago. Today we have only three. In other words, the Russians are outproducing us 14 to one!"

Ten days later this was confirmed by a Defense Department spokesman. On May 18, however, Eisenhower said just the opposite.

"It is just not true," he told a press conference, that we "have lost in a twinkling" all our great technical advantages.

General Burgess, however, is an intelligence officer who knew what the intelligence reports were from Moscow. He also knew that the Russian pilots had flown their new jets right over the American embassy 13 times, virtually thumbing their noses at the American ambassador. So he gave an unvarnished speech before the American Legion in Detroit.

Actually his facts were correct and his conclusions were correct, but he got an immediate call from General Twining in Washington.

"If you'd said it two weeks ago, or if you'd said it two weeks later, it might have been all right," the Air Force chief said. "But coming at this time, you've got us into trouble."

What Did Burgess Say?

General Burgess then went with General Twining and Secretary Talbott to face the Senate Armed Services Committee where in secret session he claimed the Associated Press had misquoted him. This column is able to reveal what he told the senators he had said in Detroit.

"The Russians are not 12 feet tall with an A-bomb in both hands," General Burgess said he said. "They are also not three feet tall. Actually they're 5 feet 10 inches tall and weigh 175 pounds. We should neither over-estimate nor under-estimate them. They're just as smart as we are and maybe smarter."

Those present at the Detroit meeting claim Burgess further stated:

"They have an air force just as good as ours or maybe better."

Back at the Pentagon after facing the senators, General Burgess was called in to see Secretary of Defense Wilson. He expected to be bawled out. Instead Wilson was mild and cordial.

"Welcome," he said, "to the foot-in-mouth club."

And he took the general over to a corner of his office to inspect a collection of cartoons lampooning Wilson for his bird-dogs and kennel-dogs statement and various other malaprops.

NOTE—Out of all this came an order by General Twining for a complete review of the U. S. air program to see just exactly where we stand.

Anthony Eden's Jitters

Diplomatic cables report that Prime Minister Anthony Eden is suffering from a bad case of pre-election jitters even though all polls show his Conservative party out in front.

Eden called a special meeting of his brain trust last week to warn that the Labor party would launch a last minute whispering campaign involving the hydrogen bomb in a desperate maneuver to catch up. Eden said word is to be passed around that a Conservative victory will mean a hydrogen bomb war in two years which will wipe Britain off the map.

Despite these last minute jitters, I still predict Eden's Conservatives will win the election on Thursday and increase their margin in Parliament.

Position Of Strength?

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

There is now a settled, official, Eisenhower Administration theory to explain the apparent change in the Soviet policy line. This "school solution" of the puzzle of Soviet policy was succinctly stated by the President himself at his most recent press conference, when he was asked about the Big Four meeting:

"Now, as I say and Secretary Dulles said, we are approaching this thing from a greater position of strength than we ever had before."

To put it very simply, the official Administration theory is that the Russians are being nicer because we are stronger. But there is a minority of skeptical officials who privately reject this official theory outright. They believe, instead, that the Russians are being nicer because they are stronger — and because they want to have time to become stronger still.

At the same press conference, the President suggested one reason why the official doctrine is doubted by these skeptics. He was asked whether he was "startled" by the Soviet air developments revealed in the recent flights over Moscow before and after May Day. He replied:

"I believe this: that from time to time, in several lines of endeavor, scientific endeavor, aircraft, and others, there has come in evidence that exceeded predictions of what — where they would be at any particular moment."

In other words, our Intelligence was caught by surprise by the rapid development of Soviet air power as revealed by the Moscow over-flights. As the President also implied, this was by no means the first time. Our Intelligence has consistently underestimated Soviet scientific - military capabilities, most notably in the case of the Soviet atomic and thermonuclear bombs, but in other instances as well.

It just does not make sense, the skeptics maintain, to suppose that the Russians are being rendered docile by a "greater position of strength than we have ever had before," when Soviet scientific-military achievements have been so rapid that they have repeatedly caught our Intelligence flat-footed.

It makes more sense, they maintain, to suppose that precisely the opposite is true. After all, we know beyond question that the Soviets achieved their first atomic bomb, their first thermonuclear bomb, and their first heavy intercontinental jet bomber, in less time than we required to produce the equivalent. In all three cases, we had a head start, so that we are — we hope — still ahead in nuclear stockpiling and about even in heavy jet bomber production.

But we had no head start at all in one key field — missiles, on which the Soviets have been working feverishly since the war. The intercontinental ballistic missile, against which there is no known defense at all, is the big prize in the race for air-atomic supremacy.

"Suppose," one of the dissenters from the position-of-strength theory has said, "that the Russians knew for certain they would have enough IBMs to knock out our strategic airforce, say by 1958. Wouldn't they want to be very sure that no war broke out before 1958?"

This may be too simple and too sinister an explanation of the sudden seeming softness of the Soviets. But at least it provides a useful corrective to the happy notion that the United States and its allies have somehow suddenly achieved a position of unchallengeable strength. A very good case could be made for the thesis that we were better off in 1949, the year when Louis Johnson was hacking away at our defenses, and Europe was totally undefended, than we are now.

Since 1949 Communist China has emerged as a great imperialist power and the Western position in Asia has been perhaps fatally weakened. Europe still cannot be held against a really determined Communist assault, and effective German rearmament, which would render Europe defensible, is still several years away. But, above all, the air-atomic equation has turned against us.

We had only a few hundred medium powered atomic bombs in 1949, but they were enough to destroy all major Soviet targets. This continent was invulnerable to Soviet attack. Now, according to the Administration's own official estimates, the Soviets have an air defense well ahead of ours, a strategic air force rapidly catching up with ours, and a nuclear stockpile sufficient to Soviet strategic needs.

It is true that the signing of the Paris accords has given the Western Allies a new and very useful diplomatic bargaining counter. It is true that the Western Allies are reasonably united and economically healthy. But if you think in hard terms of existing power, it is difficult to go along with the Administration theory that our "position of strength" is forcing the Russians to seek a settlement. For strength, after all, is a relative thing, as those heavy jet bombers in the skies over Moscow should serve to remind us.

Fort Hill Wins Junior High School Track And Field Meet

Broad Jumping Records Fall In Two Classes

Cresaptown, Second; Knotts, McCullough Hang Up New Marks

Scoring 40 of their 73½ points in the junior unlimited class, Fort Hill High School's thinclads romped to victory in the tenth annual Allegany County Junior High School track and field meet yesterday at the local stadium.

It marked the seventh time in nine years of competition since 1946 that the Hilltoppers have emerged the winners. Fort Hill did not compete last year.

Cresaptown took second place with 58½ points followed by Allegany with 36½, Valley 17, Beall 11 and Bruce 1½ tallies.

Two new broad jump records were established. Tommy Knotts of Cresaptown jumped 16 feet, 5¾ inches in the 95 pound event to better the previous mark of 15 feet, 7 inches, set by Lease of Allegany and Reynolds of Fort Hill in 1948. Mike McCullough, Fort Hill, shattered the junior unlimited record of 18 feet, 11½ inches set by Morgan of Beall in 1952 when he leaped 19 feet, 5¾ inches.

Joe Wenrich of Cresaptown and Mike McCullough, Fort Hill, each won two events. Wenrich captured the 115 pound 100 yards dash and high jump and McCullough was first in the junior unlimited broad jump and high jump. The summary:

GAME TODAY

Bruce at Flintstone (3:30)

Wayne Murray, Fort Hill High School southpaw, yielded two hits and one run in the first inning then twirled hitless and runless ball for six frames to give Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Sentinels their tenth consecutive triumph over Valley High School of Lonaconing in a Bi-State Conference game yesterday at Barton. The score was 8-1.

Bobby Mundeno's double and Ellsworth Russell's single produced the Black Knights' only tally in the initial frame.

In posting his fourth straight win of the campaign against no losses, Murray struck out eight and issued only two free tickets.

The victory gave the Sentinels a 12-1 league record with only three games left to play. Fort Hill maintained its two-game lead over Beall and LaSalle, both of which won games yesterday.

Dorcil Kline headed the Fort Hill offensive with a double and two singles in four official trips, scored three runs, batted in a pair and pilfered four hassocks. Ed Parsons, Donald Irons and Murray obtained two hits each.

Mullaney Beats Aggies

Sophomore Matt Mullaney made his debut on the mound for LaSalle High School and pitched the Explorers to an 8-2 decision over Flintstone High School at Penn Avenue Field.

Mullaney yielded only three hits, one a triple by Kenny Lough, and struck out five batsmen.

LaSalle put the game on ice early, scored seven of its eight runs in the first two innings.

Harold Hudson and Gary Smith shared four of the Explorers nine safeties. Lough was charged with the loss, the eleventh in a row for the Aggies.

Rice Notches 7th Win

Beall High School extended its winning streak to six games by taking Bruce High into camp at Westernport by the score of 7-4.

A four-run rally in the 6th inning enabled the Mountaineers to come from behind and defeat relief pitcher "Kip" Montgomery, who had replaced Norman Raines.

Ronnie Rice went all the way for Beall, posted his fourth straight triumph and upped his season record to 7-2. The Mountaineers' right-hander kept eight hits well spaced and struck out nine.

Bob Ahern gave Bruce a 3-1 lead in the first inning when he smashed a three-run homer. Kenny and Clyde Broadwater of Bruce and Johnson, Llewellyn and Felker of Beall collected two hits each.

Hyndman Beats Campers

Hyndman staged a garrison finish to whip the Allegany Campers at Campobello by the score of 12-11.

Trailing 11-6 going into the 7th inning, the Pennsylvanians grouped six hits with two walks and an error for six runs to eke out a decision over Coach Roy Lester's tossers who absorbed their fourth straight defeat.

Don May, who relieved Gary Lehman in the third inning, got credit for the win, his 7th against a single setback. Don Paye, Allegany relief twirler, yielded 10 hits in 3⅔ innings and was charged with the loss.

Eddie Cecil of Allegany paced the swatsmiths with four hits in five official trips. May sparked the Hyndman hits with three two-baggers while Ranker rapped a pair of doubles and a single.

Virgil Akins Stops Miceli

Bout In New York Ends In 1st Round

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Virgil Akins of St. Louis racked up his fourth straight knockout by stopping Joe Miceli of New York in 2:41 of the first round of a telecast bout at St. Nicholas Arena. Akins weighed 145, Miceli 148½.

The 25-year-old Negro floored Miceli three times and was automatically out under New York's three knockdowns - and - out rules. After Miceli's third trip to the floor, Referee Ray Miller waved his arms to signal the kayo.

A jolting left hook felled and stunned the 26-year-old ex-soldier. He got up at three, shaking his head in an effort to clear away the cobwebs and was given the automatic eight count.

Eager for the kill, Akins tore after Miceli and decked him for the third and last time with a short right to the jaw.

GAME TODAY

Bruce at Flintstone (3:30)

Wayne Murray, Fort Hill High School southpaw, yielded two hits and one run in the first inning then twirled hitless and runless ball for six frames to give Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Sentinels their tenth consecutive triumph over Valley High School of Lonaconing in a Bi-State Conference game yesterday at Barton. The score was 8-1.

Bobby Mundeno's double and Ellsworth Russell's single produced the Black Knights' only tally in the initial frame.

In posting his fourth straight win of the campaign against no losses, Murray struck out eight and issued only two free tickets.

The victory gave the Sentinels a 12-1 league record with only three games left to play. Fort Hill maintained its two-game lead over Beall and LaSalle, both of which won games yesterday.

Dorcil Kline headed the Fort Hill offensive with a double and two singles in four official trips, scored three runs, batted in a pair and pilfered four hassocks. Ed Parsons, Donald Irons and Murray obtained two hits each.

Mullaney Beats Aggies

Sophomore Matt Mullaney made his debut on the mound for LaSalle High School and pitched the Explorers to an 8-2 decision over Flintstone High School at Penn Avenue Field.

Mullaney yielded only three hits, one a triple by Kenny Lough, and struck out five batsmen.

LaSalle put the game on ice early, scored seven of its eight runs in the first two innings.

Harold Hudson and Gary Smith shared four of the Explorers nine safeties. Lough was charged with the loss, the eleventh in a row for the Aggies.

Rice Notches 7th Win

Beall High School extended its winning streak to six games by taking Bruce High into camp at Westernport by the score of 7-4.

A four-run rally in the 6th inning enabled the Mountaineers to come from behind and defeat relief pitcher "Kip" Montgomery, who had replaced Norman Raines.

Ronnie Rice went all the way for Beall, posted his fourth straight triumph and upped his season record to 7-2. The Mountaineers' right-hander kept eight hits well spaced and struck out nine.

Bob Ahern gave Bruce a 3-1 lead in the first inning when he smashed a three-run homer. Kenny and Clyde Broadwater of Bruce and Johnson, Llewellyn and Felker of Beall collected two hits each.

Virgil Akins Stops Miceli

Bout In New York Ends In 1st Round

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Virgil Akins of St. Louis racked up his fourth straight knockout by stopping Joe Miceli of New York in 2:41 of the first round of a telecast bout at St. Nicholas Arena. Akins weighed 145, Miceli 148½.

The 25-year-old Negro floored Miceli three times and was automatically out under New York's three knockdowns - and - out rules. After Miceli's third trip to the floor, Referee Ray Miller waved his arms to signal the kayo.

A jolting left hook felled and stunned the 26-year-old ex-soldier. He got up at three, shaking his head in an effort to clear away the cobwebs and was given the automatic eight count.

Eager for the kill, Akins tore after Miceli and decked him for the third and last time with a short right to the jaw.

Tunney Opines Dempsey, Greb, Gibbons Better Than Marciano

Gene Says Trio Would Have Defeated Rocky

CHICAGO, May 23 (AP)—Tommy Gibbons, Harry Greb and Jack Dempsey would have beaten heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano in their prime, Gene Tunney said today.

Gene Tunney

Tunney, who retired as heavyweight king in 1928 after kayoing Tom Heeney, did some reminiscing while in Chicago for Armed Forces Day.

"Gibbons was a wonderful boxer—he would have knocked Rocky out," said Tunney. "He would have slipped inside Rocky and taken charge.

"I don't believe Rocky would have laid a glove on Greb. Dempsey had everything Marciano has in strength and power and was intuitively a shrewd fighter with tremendous drive."

Tunney, who beat Dempsey twice, Greb once and knocked out Gibbons in 1925, refused to be drawn into a comparison of what his chances would have been in his prime against Marciano.

"Rocky can lick anybody in the world today," he added. "If Archie Moore gets a crack at him he will give the champion a fine battle but Rocky is bound to hit Archie on the head and that will make the difference. Rocky can miss with a punch wider than anybody I ever saw. But he gets his power from those overhand blows which Dempsey used to throw."

Rusty Callow Gets National Citation

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 23 (AP)—Russell S. (Rusty) Callow, Navy crew coach, was named today as winner of the first national citation for an outstanding contribution to rowing in America.

Callow will receive the Mid-Hudson Schoolboy Rowing Assn. Citation Plaque and a Poughkeepsie Junior Chamber of Commerce medallion at a dinner here June 14. The award was made on a nationwide poll of sports writers and rowing experts.

Callow, who captained the 1915 University of Washington crew, has been a rowing coach for 30 years at Washington, Pennsylvania and Navy. His crews have won six Intercollegiate Rowing Assn. regattas and his Navy varsity ran up an unprecedented string of 31 consecutive victories before losing to Penn this spring.

Giants Buy Sid Gordon

Came To Pittsburgh In O'Connell Trade

PITTSBURGH, May 23 (AP) — Sid Gordon, a veteran outfielder and third baseman who is now in his 14th year in the major leagues, was sold to the New York Giants by the Pittsburgh Pirates today in a straight cash deal.

In making the announcement, the Pirates declined to reveal the amount of cash involved.

The deal sends Gordon back to the team with which he began his major league career in 1941. He played with the Giants through 1949, with the exception of 1944 and 1945 when he was in the Armed Forces.

In 1950 he went to the Boston Braves and continued to play with the Braves in 1953 when the team's franchise was switched to Milwaukee. He came to the Pirates in 1954 in a trade that sent Danny O'Connell to the Braves.

Gordon, who will be 37 in August, had appeared in 16 games for the Pirates this season. His batting average so far is .191.

The native New Yorker has a lifetime batting average of .286 and needs only five more home runs to join the 200-homer club. Until 1953 he hit at least 25 home runs for five consecutive seasons.

In New York, the Giants announced that infielder Foster Castleman had been sent to Minneapolis on option on a 24-hour recall basis to make room for Gordon.

The Elks have won their first five games of the campaign, including a 13-8 decision over the Outdoor Club. In the series opener Underdonk decisioned Larrick.

At Stitcher Field, the Loyal Order of Moose will play the Knights of Columbus.

Capital Alleys Tests Central Quick Lunch

A contest between the leader and runner-up highlights today's schedule in the Men's City Rec Softball League.

Central Quick Lunch (3-0) is listed to play the Capital Bowling Alleys team (2-1) at Fort Hill Field at 6:15.

Post Playground will play the Veterans of Foreign Wars at East Side Field.

Old Export

the beer that's BREWED A LITTLE AT A TIME

Western Maryland's most popular beer

Planning a picnic, soon? Make sure your basket is packed with plenty of Old Export. For picnic time is a wonderful time to enjoy this really great beer. Out in the open when appetites are keen, you appreciate the big difference there is between Old Export and other beers.

The unchanging good taste of Old Export results from two essential policies in our brewing method. First, we always brew a little at a time . . . this gives us better flavor control of the expensive ingredients we use. And second, we only brew with mountain water. Together this means Old Export will taste good . . . everytime.

This two-part secret of finer beer has been called, by famous European brewmasters, the golden rule for brewing a great beer: "take the plant to where good water is, and brew a little at a time, many times a day".

So, if you want a beer that's different . . . and the difference you want is good taste . . . then the beer you want is Old Export. Just taste it!

For a better glass of beer everytime . . . OLD Export

Mountain Water makes the difference!

Tunney Opines Dempsey, Greb, Gibbons Better Than Marciano

Gene Says Trio Would Have Defeated Rocky

CHICAGO, May 23 (AP)—Tommy Gibbons, Harry Greb and Jack Dempsey would have beaten heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano in their prime, Gene Tunney said today.

Gene Tunney

Tunney, who retired as heavyweight king in 1928 after kayoing Tom Heeney, did some reminiscing while in Chicago for Armed Forces Day.

"Gibbons was a wonderful boxer —he would have knocked Rocky out," said Tunney. "He would have slipped inside Rocky and taken charge.

"I don't believe Rocky would have laid a glove on Greb. Dempsey had everything Marciano has in strength and power and was intuitively a shrewd fighter with tremendous drive."

Tunney, who beat Dempsey twice, Greb once and knocked out Gibbons in 1925, refused to be drawn into a comparison of what his chances would have been in his prime against Marciano.

"Rocky can lick anybody in the world today," he added. "If Archie Moore gets a crack at him he will give the champion a fine battle but Rocky is bound to hit Archie on the head and that will make the difference. Rocky can miss with a punch wider than anybody I ever saw. But he gets his power from those overhand blows which Dempsey used to throw."

Rusty Callow Gets National Citation

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 23 (AP)—Russell S. (Rusty) Callow, Navy crew coach, was named today as winner of the first national citation for an outstanding contribution to rowing in America.

Callow will receive the Mid-Hudson Schoolboy Rowing Assn. Citation Plaque and a Poughkeepsie Junior Chamber of Commerce medallion at a dinner here June 14. The award was made on a nationwide poll of sports writers and rowing experts.

Callow, who captained the 1915 University of Washington crew, has been a rowing coach for 30 years at Washington, Pennsylvania and Navy. His crews have won six Intercollegiate Rowing Assn. regattas and his Navy varsity ran up an unprecedented string of 31 consecutive victories before losing to Penn this spring.

Giants Buy Sid Gordon

Came To Pittsburgh In O'Connell Trade

PITTSBURGH, May 23 (AP) — Sid Gordon, a veteran outfielder and third baseman who is now in his 14th year in the major leagues, was sold to the New York Giants by the Pittsburgh Pirates today in a straight cash deal.

In making the announcement, the Pirates declined to reveal the amount of cash involved.

The deal sends Gordon back to the team with which he began his major league career in 1941. He played with the Giants through 1949, with the exception of 1944 and 1945 when he was in the Armed Forces.

In 1950 he went to the Boston Braves and continued to play with the Braves in 1953 when the team's franchise was switched to Milwaukee. He came to the Pirates in 1954 in a trade that sent Danny O'Connell to the Braves.

Gordon, who will be 37 in August, had appeared in 16 games for the Pirates this season. His batting average so far is .191.

The native New Yorker has a lifetime batting average of .286 and needs only five more home runs to join the 200-homer club. Until 1953 he hit at least 25 home runs for five consecutive seasons.

In New York, the Giants announced that infielder Foster Castleman had been sent to Minneapolis on option on a 24-hour recall basis to make room for Gordon.

Underdonk Seeks Fifth Win As Elks Play Outdoor Club

Bill Underdonk, leading pitcher in the Rocking Chair Softball League, will be angling for his fifth straight win of the season today when the front-running B.P.O. Elks collide with the Outdoor Club at Allegany Field at 6:15 p.m.

The Elks have won their first five games of the campaign, including a 13-8 decision over the Outdoor Club. In the series opener Underdonk decisioned Larrick.

At Stitcher Field, the Loyal Order of Moose will play the Knights of Columbus.

Capital Alleys Tests Central Quick Lunch

A contest between the leader and runner-up highlights today's schedule in the Men's City Rec Softball League.

Central Quick Lunch (3-0) is listed to play the Capital Bowling Alleys team (2-1) at Fort Hill Field at 6:15.

Post Playground will play the Veterans of Foreign Wars at East Side Field.

Old Export

the beer that's BREWED A LITTLE AT A TIME

Western Maryland's most popular beer

Planning a picnic, soon? Make sure your basket is packed with plenty of Old Export. For picnic time is a wonderful time to enjoy this really great beer. Out in the open when appetites are keen, you appreciate the big difference there is between Old Export and other beers.

The unchanging good taste of Old Export results from two essential policies in our brewing method. First, we always brew a little at a time . . . this gives us better flavor control of the expensive ingredients we use. And second, we only brew with mountain water. Together this means Old Export will taste good . . . everytime.

This two-part secret of finer beer has been called, by famous European brewmasters, the golden rule for brewing a great beer: "take the plant to where good water is, and brew a little at a time, many times a day".

So, if you want a beer that's different . . . and the difference you want is good taste . . . then the beer you want is Old Export. Just taste it!

For a better glass of beer everytime . . . OLD Export

Mountain Water makes the difference!

Youth Census In Cresaptown Is Discussed

Plans for a youth census in the Cresaptown area were discussed at a meeting of the Community Council recently, and it is hoped to decide on a recreation program after the census figures are completed.

The boundaries agreed upon by the council cover the area from the Celanese plant to Pinto Lane, along the Potomac River, and include Amcelle Acres, Triple Lakes, Winchester Road section to the bridge, and Cresaptown.

Members of the following organizations will take the census. Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cresaptown Civic Imporovement Association, Cresaptown Eagles, Potomac Valley Lions Club, Cresaptown Homemakers, Progressive Women's Club, Cresaptown Lay Health Group, Ladies Auxiliary of the Cresaptown Firemen, American Legion Auxiliary, Calvary Baptist Church and Methodist Church.

Rev. Carroll Warner, pastor of the St. Ambrose Catholic Church, is chairman of the census committee.

Mrs. Raymond Crowe is preparing the forms for the census and these will be available at the Methodist parsonage on May 28.

All residents up to 24 years of age will be listed in the census. The Potomac Valley Lions Club will furnish basketball and softball equipment for the playground.

Other materials for playground projects have been furnished by Lions Club and Eagles. Volunteer workers from the organizations will assist in preparing the play field.

Volunteer adult leaders are being sought to supervise the programs at the playgrounds this summer. Those interested can contact Charles Wendt or Walter Richardson.

Through the efforts of the council it is hoped that a long-range and varied program of recreation can be arranged. Financial help will be accepted by the treasurer, Charles Wendt.

The next meeting of the council will be held July 15.

The month of February was called "sprout-kale" by the Anglo-Saxons from the sprouting of cabbage at this season.

HORRENDOUS BIDDING

A READER asks for an opinion about the hand below, which (he says) led to a protracted argument.

West dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 6 3 ♥ — ♦ A J 9 7 4 ♣ K Q J 8 7 5
♠ A J 10 8 ♥ A J 4 ♦ K Q 10 8 2 ♣ 10	N W E S	♠ K 9 4 2 ♥ 8 7 3 2 ♦ — ♣ A 9 6 4 3
	♠ Q 7 5 ♥ K Q 10 9 6 5 ♦ 6 5 3 ♣ 2

This was the reported bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Dble.	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	?

Now, to quote: "The argument arose over what South should bid over North's three clubs. Actually, he bid three hearts, was doubled by East, and went down 1400 points. North insisted that his own three-club bid was a sign-off, but South argued that North couldn't sign off after inviting a major-suit response by his double and then not mentioning the other major, spades, on his own account. South said that North's original double was incredibly bad.

"Who was right, if either?"

This observer agrees with South that his partner's takeout double of one diamond was inexcusable. Without support for either major suit and, in fact, with every reason to be afraid of the likely heart response, North should have confined himself to one of two courses: passing, in the hope of trapping diamonds; or, if he felt that there was little chance of the opponents going on in diamonds, putting in a two-club overcall.

South might well have answered the double with a jump to two hearts, but even as the auction went he could not be blamed for carrying on to three hearts, over North's three clubs. It was unthinkable, from South's point of view, that the dummy would go down with six clubs, five diamonds, two spades and no hearts.

Incidentally, one must wonder what East was thinking about when he failed to double three clubs.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 23 (INS)—A really inspired idea is that of Paul McNamara and Jack Chertok to bring the life and times of Winston Churchill to television in 26 one-hour shows.

In London one of the big law firms is presenting the idea to the popular Winnie. It merely calls for Churchill's appearance at the beginning and ending of documentary films, starting before World War II and ending with his resignation as prime minister.

Churchill's appearance in the shows calls for a minimum of work and would not tax his strength, and it would guarantee him a sizeable income for many years. The offer made him is a percentage one.

I've announced so many pictures for Jane Russell, I've forgotten some of them myself. But her next up, starting July 1, is "Tambourine," A Harry Welch production for Columbia on a loan out from Howard Hughes.

Although the Jesse Lasky, Jr., story is about a gypsy fortune teller, it's modern in feeling and Jane both sings and dances.

Jane just finished "Tall Men" with Clark Gable, and Clark is really singing her praises. I don't know when he's said so many nice things about a leading lady.

The test will come, say I, when Jane becomes Clark's boss in "The Last Man at Wagon Mound" for her independent company.

Elaine Stewart tells me that she is going into the lamp business. On her way back from Brazil, she met an uncle of hers in Chicago, whom she hadn't seen since she was 16 years old.

"He makes the most beautiful lamps," she said, "and so I have invested in his business and he is going to call it "The Elaine Stewart Glamour lamps."

I asked here if she was going to get married to her doctor boy friend and she said she hadn't thought of marriage or anything else she had been so terribly sick. She hasn't even been out to M-G-M since her return.

While I was out on the Warner lot visiting George Stevens, Henry Ginsberg and Jack Webb, I was told that Jack Warner has bought "Burning Hills" by Louis L'Amour, the author of John Wayne's picture, "Hondo."

According to Warner, it will be Richard Whorf's first direction stint for his company.

So far no one has been given the top role. I am wondering if it won't be a John Wayne picture. He was crazy about "Hondo."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The rumors that Dorothy Dandridge lost a fortune gambling at Cannes are not true, according to Dorothy, herself, who says she doesn't even like to gamble.

The romance of Singer Patti Paige and Charles O'Curran cannot be treated lightly—it's the real thing and Charlie is forgetting his unhappy marriage to Betty Hutton.

Cheryl Crane goes to summer camp this year, the first time Lana Turner has allowed her one ewe lamb to stray so far from home.

Jeanne Crain and Paul Brinkman will take two weeks off in August to plane to Rio for the opening of a new airline.

Walter Abel, who gets here next week for "Indian fighter," need not worry about his two strapping six-foot sons. They've joined the Marine Corps.

Charlton Heston will deliver the Gettysburg Address at the Sawtelle Cemetery for the veterans at Sawtell Hospital.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Youth Census In Cresaptown Is Discussed

Plans for a youth census in the Cresaptown area were discussed at a meeting of the Community Council recently, and it is hoped to decide on a recreation program after the census figures are completed.

The boundaries agreed upon by the council cover the area from the Celanese plant to Pinto Lane, along the Potomac River, and include Amcelle Acres, Triple Lakes, Winchester Road section to the bridge, and Cresaptown.

Members of the following organizations will take the census. Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cresaptown Civic Imporovement Association, Cresaptown Eagles, Potomac Valley Lions Club, Cresaptown Homemakers, Progressive Women's Club, Cresaptown Lay Health Group, Ladies Auxiliary of the Cresaptown Firemen, American Legion Auxiliary, Calvary Baptist Church and Methodist Church.

Rev. Carroll Warner, pastor of the St. Ambrose Catholic Church, is chairman of the census committee.

Mrs. Raymond Crowe is preparing the forms for the census and these will be available at the Methodist parsonage on May 28.

All residents up to 24 years of age will be listed in the census. The Potomac Valley Lions Club will furnish basketball and softball equipment for the playground.

Other materials for playground projects have been furnished by Lions Club and Eagles. Volunteer workers from the organizations will assist in preparing the play field.

Volunteer adult leaders are being sought to supervise the programs at the playgrounds this summer. Those interested can contact Charles Wendt or Walter Richardson.

Through the efforts of the council it is hoped that a long-range and varied program of recreation can be arranged. Financial help will be accepted by the treasurer, Charles Wendt.

The next meeting of the council will be held July 15.

The month of February was called "sprout-kale" by the Anglo-Saxons from the sprouting of cabbage at this season.

HORRENDOUS BIDDING

A READER asks for an opinion about the hand below, which (he says) led to a protracted argument.

West dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 6 3 ♥ — ♦ A J 9 7 4 ♣ K Q J 8 7 5
♠ A J 10 8 ♥ A J 4 ♦ K Q 10 8 2 ♣ 10	N W E S	♠ K 9 4 2 ♥ 8 7 3 2 ♦ — ♣ A 9 6 4 3
	♠ Q 7 5 ♥ K Q 10 9 6 5 ♦ 6 5 3 ♣ 2

This was the reported bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Dble.	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	?

Now, to quote: "The argument arose over what South should bid over North's three clubs. Actually, he bid three hearts, was doubled by East, and went down 1400 points. North insisted that his own three-club bid was a sign-off, but South argued that North couldn't sign off after inviting a major-suit response by his double and then not mentioning the other major, spades, on his own account. South said that North's original double was incredibly bad.

"Who was right, if either?"

This observer agrees with South that his partner's takeout double of one diamond was inexcusable. Without support for either major suit and, in fact, with every reason to be afraid of the likely heart response, North should have confined himself to one of two courses: passing, in the hope of trapping diamonds; or, if he felt that there was little chance of the opponents going on in diamonds, putting in a two-club overcall.

South might well have answered the double with a jump to two hearts, but even as the auction went he could not be blamed for carrying on to three hearts, over North's three clubs. It was unthinkable, from South's point of view, that the dummy would go down with six clubs, five diamonds, two spades and no hearts.

Incidentally, one must wonder what East was thinking about when he failed to double three clubs.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 23 (INS)—A really inspired idea is that of Paul McNamara and Jack Chertok to bring the life and times of Winston Churchill to television in 26 one-hour shows.

In London one of the big law firms is presenting the idea to the popular Winnie. It merely calls for Churchill's appearance at the beginning and ending of documentary films, starting before World War II and ending with his resignation as prime minister.

Churchill's appearance in the shows calls for a minimum of work and would not tax his strength, and it would guarantee him a sizeable income for many years. The offer made him is a percentage one.

I've announced so many pictures for Jane Russell, I've forgotten some of them myself. But her next up, starting July 1, is "Tambourine," A Harry Welch production for Columbia on a loan out from Howard Hughes.

Although the Jesse Lasky, Jr., story is about a gypsy fortune teller, it's modern in feeling and Jane both sings and dances.

Jane just finished "Tall Men" with Clark Gable, and Clark is really singing her praises. I don't know when he's said so many nice things about a leading lady.

The test will come, say I, when Jane becomes Clark's boss in "The Last Man at Wagon Mound" for her independent company.

Elaine Stewart tells me that she is going into the lamp business. On her way back from Brazil, she met an uncle of hers in Chicago, whom she hadn't seen since she was 16 years old.

"He makes the most beautiful lamps," she said, "and so I have invested in his business and he is going to call it "The Elaine Stewart Glamour lamps."

I asked here if she was going to get married to her doctor boy friend and she said she hadn't thought of marriage or anything else she had been so terribly sick. She hasn't even been out to M-G-M since her return.

While I was out on the Warner lot visiting George Stevens, Henry Ginsberg and Jack Webb, I was told that Jack Warner has bought "Burning Hills" by Louis L'Amour, the author of John Wayne's picture, "Hondo."

According to Warner, it will be Richard Whorf's first direction stint for his company.

So far no one has been given the top role. I am wondering if it won't be a John Wayne picture. He was crazy about "Hondo."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The rumors that Dorothy Dandridge lost a fortune gambling at Cannes are not true, according to Dorothy, herself, who says she doesn't even like to gamble.

The romance of Singer Patti Paige and Charles O'Curran cannot be treated lightly—it's the real thing and Charlie is forgetting his unhappy marriage to Betty Hutton.

Cheryl Crane goes to summer camp this year, the first time Lana Turner has allowed her one ewe lamb to stray so far from home.

Jeanne Crain and Paul Brinkman will take two weeks off in August to plane to Rio for the opening of a new airline.

Walter Abel, who gets here next week for "Indian fighter," need not worry about his two strapping six-foot sons. They've joined the Marine Corps.

Charlton Heston will deliver the Gettysburg Address at the Sawtelle Cemetery for the veterans at Sawtell Hospital.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Feeling misunderstood? This attitude stems off charm at the start.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Probably the least attractive attitude toward life—the one that makes a person least attractive to others—is that of feeling misunderstood. That I'm-all-alone, nobody-understands-me slant on living makes impossible the outgoingness that's the first great secret of charm.

That lone position you take will make everybody leave you alone. A negative attitude can not draw people to you, and there's certainly nothing like it for pushing them away. About face to the positive is the only answer, and this begins with remembering the fact that others approach you positively. It's the happy human trait of everyone to like people and want to be liked in return. There really are many who'd like to understand you, if they were given a chance, or half a chance.

First of all, ask yourself if you understand others. Someone who seemed uninteresting may turn out to be a delightful companion if you show enough interest to bring out a good side, and this will surely bring out an interest in you. Choose a person whose views on you always seemed to be less than enthusiastic. Start a leading, but tactful, conversation. It may be surprising how successful a very first effort of this kind can be. Stick with the plan in any case, and acquaintances begin to look very different. You, too, look different to everyone else.

A charming person has carried the good outgoing qualities everyone has to the most pleasing conclusion. People are friendly by nature and interested in their fellow man. They simply respond most to those who are most like themselves, or what they want to be. Understand others and show it, and they will understand and appreciate you.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM

You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Feeling misunderstood? This attitude stems off charm at the start.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Probably the least attractive attitude toward life—the one that makes a person least attractive to others—is that of feeling misunderstood. That I'm-all-alone, nobody-understands-me slant on living makes impossible the outgoingness that's the first great secret of charm.

That lone position you take will make everybody leave you alone. A negative attitude can not draw people to you, and there's certainly nothing like it for pushing them away. About face to the positive is the only answer, and this begins with remembering the fact that others approach you positively. It's the happy human trait of everyone to like people and want to be liked in return. There really are many who'd like to understand you, if they were given a chance, or half a chance.

First of all, ask yourself if you understand others. Someone who seemed uninteresting may turn out to be a delightful companion if you show enough interest to bring out a good side, and this will surely bring out an interest in you. Choose a person whose views on you always seemed to be less than enthusiastic. Start a leading, but tactful, conversation. It may be surprising how successful a very first effort of this kind can be. Stick with the plan in any case, and acquaintances begin to look very different. You, too, look different to everyone else.

A charming person has carried the good outgoing qualities everyone has to the most pleasing conclusion. People are friendly by nature and interested in their fellow man. They simply respond most to those who are most like themselves, or what they want to be. Understand others and show it, and they will understand and appreciate you.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM

You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

B A E H B C G F G , N L G V , I F I G E E F I G V ! U N U C H B E H A G V U V Y M K F — W K U T T U G .

City To File Friendly Suit On Zoning Issue

The city plans to seek a court injunction—a "friendly suit" to establish evidence—as the result of Columbia Street residents' claims that a local concrete firm has violated the zoning laws.

The protest involves the Super Concrete Company, which the Columbia Street residents say, has moved from its side of the street which is zoned for business and onto the side which is zoned for residential.

James Diehl, one of the Columbia Street spokesmen, told the Mayor and Council yesterday that all residents want is for the concrete firm to return to its side of the street.

Also speaking for the residents was Wallace H. Wilson. Both he and Diehl pointed out the concrete company is storing blocks which constitute a menace to the safety of children, in effect lower value of their properties and violates the zoning law.

Crux of the matter appears to be establishment of the fact of when the area in question was first used for business purposes. Each side has affidavits.

Favor Injunction

James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Zoning and Planning Commission, said he thought the best way to settle the dispute was by injunction and let the court weigh the evidence. Mayor Roy W. Eves agreed and made a motion that City Attorney Thomas B. Finan be authorized to seek the injunction.

Diehl emphasized, and council also agreed, that the dispute in no way is aimed at hurting the company's business but merely to establish the zoning rights.

Finan had pointed out earlier several alternatives and told council then that several similar cases are pending. He posed the question whether the city will have to seek an injunction each time these cases are brought up?

The Montreal Avenue area where the proposed Industrial Boulevard is to be located also came in for discussion.

Council approved payment of $2,100 to Easton Presnell for purchase of four lots in the East End Land Company Addition on Montreal Avenue which are within the proposed right-of-way of the boulevard. The sum also took into consideration losses and damages suffered by Presnell when the city refused to grant a permit for moving a dwelling onto the lots in question.

Finan pointed out that a zoning crisis has arisen in the Montreal Avenue area again. The southern side of the avenue has been industrial and the northern side residential but there are plans afoot now to rezone the entire area making the south side industrial and opening the north side to business.

Rezoning Favored

Roy Lewis, who owns property there and wants to open a service station and restaurant despite the fact there is only a dirt road, said council should take immediate action on rezoning the area. He said he had been waiting 18 months and also wanted to sell used cars.

Finan told Lewis he did not think there was any urgency in taking the zoning action prior to this in view of the undeveloped situation of the area, but that efforts are being pushed to get the zoning problem ironed out. Avirett, too, said the rezoning move is being undertaken.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum reminded council that no definite boundaries have been established for the Industrial Boulevard in South End.

Lewis, it was understood, previously had owned land on the industrial-zoned side of Montreal but had been stopped by the city under an agreement with the State Roads Commission to keep the proposed right-of-way clear. Lewis then deeded his property to the city in exchange for city-owned property on the other side. This side, he said, was to have been zoned for business 18 months ago.

The Board of Zoning Appeals will meet in the City Hall, Cumberland, Thursday, May 26, 1955, at 8:00 P.M., to

Frederick Street Surfacing Job Is Being Pushed

Tar And Chips Job May Be Finished Today

Barring rain, Street Department crews expect to complete temporary surfacing of a 1,500 foot stretch of Frederick Street today.

City crews yesterday completed grading and rolling the area from Linden Street to Woodlawn Terrace, and by late afternoon were tarring the surface.

Chipping and rolling the surface is slated today unless rain interferes.

The section which is being resurfaced was torn up last fall to permit the installation of a storm sewer to drain the far sections of the street, which is being paved as a federal-aid project.

The city attempted to add this torn up area to the project, so the street could be of uniform width and quality, but gave up plans for a complete job after the State Roads Commission advised no federal-aid funds were currently available.

It was then that Commissioner William H. Buchholtz decided to provide the area with an asphalt and chips surface in order to control the serious dust problem.

Plans were advanced yesterday to proceed with additional street work, both of a temporary and more permanent nature.

This was done when Commissioner Buchholtz was authorized to advertise for bids on road oil and for pipe and fittings for a Wempe Drive sewer project.

Buchholtz said plans have not been completed for the annual treatment of the city's 32 miles of unpaved streets.

The work, he added, will probably include both conventional oiling and temporary surfacing with tar and chips.

"We are going to do all we can," he pledged, "to get the town out of the mud."

Health Official Defends Polio Vaccine Decision

State Marks Time Pending Clearance

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP) — Dr. Edward Davens of the Maryland Health Department defended today the decision to go ahead with polio inoculations this year.

He said:

1. By the end of the season the vaccine "will prove to have been worthwhile."

2. "Anything this adequately tested in the field could not very well be withheld."

3. Double-checking by scientists has brought no evidence of any faulty vaccine with the possible exception of that produced by the Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif.

4. The number of polio cases is still below the expected rate of naturally occuring polio.

Dr. Davens pleaded for "less emotion" in the vaccine situation and urged the public to "be calm until the facts are known."

He said scientists are "bending over backwards to be safe."

The U. S. Public Health Service halted the vaccinations several weeks ago and Maryland's program has been marking time pending clearance of the Wyeth vaccine, which is used in Maryland, Washington, D. C., Delaware, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Approved for release after a recheck were the Parke Davis and Eli Lilly Companies vaccines.

Expert Woodworker

Frank Page, Carver High School senior, is shown with the credence which he made in his vocational industrial arts class the past two months. This was the project he submitted which won him the prize from Local 1024, Carpenters Union, as the outstanding woodworking student among the seniors in Allegany County public schools.

Carver High Senior Wins County Woodworking Prize

Frank Page, a Carver High School senior, has been adjudged the best woodworking student among the seniors in Allegany County public high schools and will be awarded the prize offered by Local 1024, Carpenters Union.

George A. Brown, financial secretary of Local 1024 and chairman of a seven-man committee which made the selection, said last night that Page will be awarded an apprentice membership in the union at his school's commencement Thursday, June 2.

Page was one of four finalists in the competition among seniors enrolled in vocational industrial arts classes. Wayne White of Fort Hill finished second, Michael Quartucci of Beall High School in Frostburg was third and William Ambrose of Bruce High School in Westernport was fourth.

The four boys took an aptitude test at the local office of the Employment Security Board, were interviewed by the seven-man committee and each submitted a project as a sample of his work.

Page's project was a credence, a type of side board. When it was brought to the Board of Education office last Friday to be examined by the committee it drew favorable comment from virtually everyone who saw it. His teacher, Charles E. Watermann, said the credence represented about two months of work in the school's new shop.

The credence will be shipped to Detroit to be entered in the Ford Competition against woodworking projects from the 48 states, Hawaii and Alaska.

White's project was a knee-hole desk, Quartucci made a gun cabinet and Ambrose a coffee table.

Others on the carpenters' committee which made the selection included Ralph E. Porter, president of the local; Ashby Lawrence, Joseph Mullenax and Harvey May, trustees; F. Patrick Allender, business agent, and Louis Twigg. They were assisted by J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational industrial arts in the county schools.

Last year's winner was Charles Brooks of Fort Hill. That was the first year of competition.

Keyser Woman Is Found Shot At Her Home

Mrs. Margaret Barger Succumbs In Hospital

Mrs. Margaret I. "Peg" Barger, wife of John W. Barger, of Keyser, died yesterday about 5:30 p. m. at Potomac Valley Hospital there of a gunshot wound in the right temple.

Mineral County Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. "Pat" Rankin said the mortally-wounded 45-year old woman was discovered by her husband, editor and publisher of the Keyser Mineral Daily News-Tribune about 5:15 p. m. when he returned home from work at his newspaper office. She died as she was being admitted to the hospital.

Mrs. Barger was lying on the daybed in the basement playroom of the Barger house at 13 South Main Street when her husband found her. She had been shot in the head by a .22 caliber bullet from a small target pistol which was found nearby.

Rankin said it appeared that Mrs. Barger took her own life but no verdict will be issued until he completes his investigation into the case.

Authorities stated that Mrs. Barger had been in ill health for a number of years and had been under the care of a physician.

Her husband told police he had just returned home from the office and was preparing to keep a business appointment when he discovered his wife in the basement playroom.

Barger explained he had asked his daughter, Phoebe, 7, who was playing next door with neighborhood children, where her mother was and the child told him Mrs. Barger had gone to the basement just a few minutes before he came home.

Mrs. Barger was born December 4, 1909, in Keyser and was a daughter of Mrs. Mary I. Fisher and the late Harry G. Fisher. She attended Keyser public school and was graduated from Potomac State Preparatory School and Potomac State College.

Besides her husband, daughter and mother she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Harriet Sheetz, Keyser, and Mrs. Muriel Moritz, Washington, D. C.

The body is at the Markwood Funeral Home in Keyser.

Youth Appeals $300 Fine, Sentence On Motor Counts

A 20-year-old youth yesterday was tried for three motor vehicle violations in Trial Magistrates Court after his cousin, who formerly had pleaded guilty to the charges, told the State's Attorney he was innocent and implicated the former youth as the guilty party.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick fined George Fox Roberts, RFD 3, Keyser, $300 and sentenced the youth to one year in the Maryland House of Correction after finding him guilty on all three charges.

Attorney Earl E. Manges, representing Roberts at the hearing, indicated he would appeal the fines and sentence in Allegany County Circuit Court. Magistrate Dick ordered young Roberts held on $2,000 bond pending the appeal hearing.

Dick said the Roberts youth was charged with the three motor counts after his cousin, Edward Albert Stroh Jr., indicated to authorities the former had driven Stroh's car last February when the vehicle ran off the highway on Route 220 at Pinto and crashed through a fence on the Barton's Dairy farm.

Testimony revealed young Stroh had pleaded guilty before Magistrate William Meagher in Cresaptown last February to driving his own car when it wrecked the Barton property. Arrested by State Trooper L. C. Clark, Stroh was fined $50 by Meagher and ordered to make restitution of the damage. His driving license was revoked, also.

Then on March 22 young Stroh again was arrested on motor vehicle violations and given 60 days in the County Jail in lieu of payment of two $100 fines for operating a car on a revoked license and exceeding 70 miles per hour on the highway. Sentence was passed by Dick.

Stroh served 30 days in jail and was released when his uncle, Roberts' father, paid his fine, Magistrate Dick said.

Meanwhile, Stroh discovered that his cousin had picked up Stroh's pay check from Roberts' father who runs a construction company and for whom both youths are employed, Dick explained.

Apparently angered by young Roberts' taking of his pay checks, Stroh told the State's Attorney he was innocent of the original charges stemming from the Barton's Dairy accident and said he "took the rap" for Roberts.

Conflicting testimony by both youths at yesterday's hearing caused Magistrate Dick to say that at least one of the boys was committing perjury.

He then levied the fines and sentence against Roberts and when the case was appealed the magistrate ordered young Stroh held as a material witness for the appeal hearing on $1,000 bond.

Store Owner Praises Police And Firemen

S. Louis Curl, owner and proprietor of Curl's Camera Shop on North Centre Street, praised the efforts of police and firemen following last Wednesday's motor accident when a car crashed into the front of the store building, injuring three persons.

The letter, in part, said: "Members of my staff and myself wish to thank you for wonderful cooperative work done by members of the police and fire departments when the store front was damaged by an automobile on Wednesday afternoon, May 18.

"Quick work by police in taking the injured to the hospital and handling of the crowds and traffic prevented any additional injuries to bystanders.

"The clearing up of all loose glass and structural parts by firemen under the personal supervision of Commissioner Keegan and Chief Parker was about as neat a street cleaning job as I have ever seen. x x x x"

The letter was addressed to Commissioner William V. Keegan, Chief R. Emmett Flynn and Chief Virgil A. Parker.

Local Firm To Certify Bond Issue

Funds Needed For Pipe Line, Filter Project

The Mayor and Council yesterday authorized the selection of a local firm to certify to the legality of bonds which will be needed for water projects.

City officials authorized City Attorney Thomas B. Finan to retain the services of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge to certify bonds for the 18-inch water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant at North Branch, and for improvements to the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

May Cost $750,000

The new pipe line is estimated to cost about $750,000. It will supply the plant with water for sanitary facilities and will be capable of filling two big water tanks used for fire fighting purposes.

The bonds might include funds for one or both of two projects at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

When the present contract for rehabilitating 12 filter units built some 40 years ago was awarded, the city did not have enough money to do the complete job.

It was decided to award part of the work, representing about $204,000, and hold up items costing $93,870 until funds were available.

This deferred work includes a number of items, including two contact basins which will eventually play a vital part in the filtration project.

Action Was Deferred

Eliminated from the contract were other projects, estimated to cost about $127,000. Major parts of this program are the installation of labor-saving motor operated valves and mixing, flocculation and settling equipment for the contact basins.

These contact basins, the first to be installed in Maryland, will remove virtually all of the sludge from the water before it hits the filter beds.

When they are in operation, the city has been told, Cumberland will have the best water in its history, since filter units will be required only to perform their intended purpose, the removal of microscopic sediment.

$1,400,000 Asked For Flood Project

The Corps of Engineers has included $1,400,000 for the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project in $22,550,000 it has requested from Congress for Middle Atlantic Area projects.

The money would be spent during the fiscal year beginning July 1. The program was detailed to a House Appropriations subcommittee by a spokesman for the Army Engineers.

Man Cuts Hand In Accident At Home

Austin A. Free, 78, of 621 Fairview Avenue, yesterday evening was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital with an injury to his right hand sustained in an accident at home.

Attaches at the hospital said Free suffered a severe laceration of his hand when a jar of preserves he was opening burst. His condition last night was reported as good. He was admitted about 5:15 p. m.

Court Is Asked To Rule On Bid Re-Advertising

Order Is Issued In Garbage Dispute

A temporary restraining order was signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris which prevents the City of Cumberland from re-advertising for bids for a garbage contract.

The city has the right to move for a dissolution of the restraining order upon five days notice.

The court order also asks the city to show cause on or before June 13 why the prayers of a bill of complaint filed by George W. Martin, 619 St. Mary's Avenue, a taxpayer, should not be granted.

Martin, in his bill of complaint, docketed by his attorney, Clarence Lippel, states that the bill is brought on his own behalf and all other similarly situated taxpayers of Cumberland.

It was further stated that the city, as part of its public works and duly authorized by its charter, has for many years collected garbage, animals and other items from the residential and business section of the city.

The last garbage contract, let to John J. Riley and Son, expired on April 30, 1955, the bill adds. The defendant city advertised for bids for garbage removal and the ad calls for the garbage contract to begin May 1, 1955, and end July 31, 1956, together with an option for the successful bidder to renew the same for additional periods of one year each thereafter for two years, the bill of complaint stated.

A supplemental advertisement had a correction of the original ad to the effect that the successful bidder would be allowed to renew each year for a four-year period.

Four Bids Received

In compliance with the advertisement the following bids were received.

Emmett A. Dougherty and Son, $64,445, C. L. Beck, $64,800; John J. Riley and Son, $67,980; and Harry E. Davis, $68,531.

The bill of complaint states that Martin has been advised that at an informal discussion in the office of the mayor on April 18, with the mayor and all the councilmen present, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz presented an order awarding the garbage contract to John J. Riley and Son, the present collector, although Riley was the third high bidder.

It is alleged that after the said order was presented it received unfavorable comment. Martin also complains that the mayor and at least some of the other commissioners did not recommend the awarding of the garbage contract to any other bidder in deference to Commissioner Buchholtz under whose jurisdiction the garbage contract was advertised.

All Bids Rejected

It was stated in the bill of complaint that on April 18 at a legislative meeting the Mayor and Council rejected all bids and directed that the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property (Buchholtz) re-advertise for bids for garbage removal. The re-advertisement has not yet been carried out, according to the complainant.

It is further alleged that at a meeting of the Mayor and Council on May 16 the matter was again discussed and no motion made to rescind the order of April 18. The order was stated by the defendant to be still in effect.

The bill of complaint states that under Section 151 of the city charter it is required by the Mayor and Council to accept the lowest responsible bid which shall be considered reasonable by the city council, and does not permit the defendant to reject all bids and re-advertise for other bids.

Authority Lacking

It is stated in the bill of complaint that under the city charter the Mayor and Council cannot reject all bids on the garbage contract unless all bids are considered excessive, in which case all bids

City, Engineers Discuss Plans For Bridges

May Advance Time For Market St. Span

Mayor Roy W. Eves said yesterday officials of the Corps of Engineers have promised to cooperate with the city in the scheduling of construction on the Market and Baltimore Street bridges.

He said that according to the schedule for flood protection work, the city might have to put up both spans at the same time unless it accelerates its plans for building the Market Street span.

The city would have to issue bonds to finance the new bridge, he added.

Mayor Eves said officials of the Corps of Engineers met with the Mayor and Council yesterday morning, and agreed to cooperate in their planning work so as to avoid the necessity of building both bridges at the same time.

Plans for the Market Street Bridge have been prepared by the J. E. Greiner Company, Baltimore. The span was estimated to cost $172,000, which includes about 15 per cent for engineering and contingencies.

It will extend 111 feet from Mechanic Street to about the entrance of the Queen City Brewery, and provides a 28 foot roadway.

The Valley Street Bridge, the first of three spans which had to be replaced as single-span structures, has been completed, except for a transformer, at the cost of about $1⅓ million.

Mt. Savage Dial Phone System To Be Changed

Direct Trunk Lines Placed To Frostburg

Direct telephone service between Mt. Savage and Frostburg will go into effect Friday when the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company places additional facilities in operation at the central office in Mt. Savage.

C. Walter Haschert, manager of the Cumberland office of the C&P said yesterday the new facilities will mean a speed-up of calls from Mt. Savage to Frostburg and will go into operation at 12:05 a. m. Friday.

Under the new procedure for calls from Mt. Savage to Frostburg the Mt. Savage customer will dial the number 8. His call will be routed directly to the Frostburg operator. The caller then needs merely to give the operator the Frostburg number he wishes to reach and the call will be placed.

This is a change from the present system of dialing "O" for operator by Mt. Savage phone users to reach Frostburg. Dialing for the operator gets the Cumberland switchboard which in turn calls the Frostburg operator now, Haschert explained. After the Frostburg operator is reached the call is placed by the Cumberland operator.

Haschert said the change will eliminate the necessity of dialing the Cumberland operator and will route the calls directly through trunk lines into Frostburg.

For calls to Mt. Savage and Wellersburg, there will be no change, he said. For other calls out of town to places such as Cumberland, the customer will dial "O" for operator.

The purpose of the move is to improve Mt. Savage to Frostburg service and to help aleviate the heavy load between the two points and between Cumberland and Frostburg and Cumberland and Mt. Savage. It is in line with the present program to expand trunk facilities in the Cumberland area, coincident with the new dial conversion, Haschert added.

The Cumberland manager noted that considerable work in the Mt. Savage central office changing wiring on relays and added trunk lines has been done to handle the new calls. The work was begun a month ago, he said.

Inserts in bills mailed this month to the customers have notified them of the change. Approximately 400 phones will be affected.

Tar And Chips Job May Be Finished Today

Barring rain, Street Department crews expect to complete temporary surfacing of a 1,500 foot stretch of Frederick Street today.

City crews yesterday completed grading and rolling the area from Linden Street to Woodlawn Terrace, and by late afternoon were tarring the surface.

Chipping and rolling the surface is slated today unless rain interferes.

The section which is being resurfaced was torn up last fall to permit the installation of a storm sewer to drain the far sections of the street, which is being paved as a federal-aid project.

The city attempted to add this torn up area to the project, so the street could be of uniform width and quality, but gave up plans for a complete job after the State Roads Commission advised no federal-aid funds were currently available.

It was then that Commissioner William H. Buchholtz decided to provide the area with an asphalt and chips surface in order to control the serious dust problem.

Plans were advanced yesterday to proceed with additional street work, both of a temporary and more permanent nature.

This was done when Commissioner Buchholtz was authorized to advertise for bids on road oil and for pipe and fittings for a Wempe Drive sewer project.

Buchholtz said plans have not been completed for the annual treatment of the city's 32 miles of unpaved streets.

The work, he added, will probably include both conventional oiling and temporary surfacing with tar and chips.

"We are going to do all we can," he pledged, "to get the town out of the mud."

Health Official Defends Polio Vaccine Decision

State Marks Time Pending Clearance

BALTIMORE, May 23 (AP) — Dr. Edward Davens of the Maryland Health Department defended today the decision to go ahead with polio inoculations this year.

He said:

1. By the end of the season the vaccine "will prove to have been worthwhile."

2. "Anything this adequately tested in the field could not very well be withheld."

3. Double-checking by scientists has brought no evidence of any faulty vaccine with the possible exception of that produced by the Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif.

4. The number of polio cases is still below the expected rate of naturally occuring polio.

Dr. Davens pleaded for "less emotion" in the vaccine situation and urged the public to "be calm until the facts are known."

He said scientists are "bending over backwards to be safe."

The U. S. Public Health Service halted the vaccinations several weeks ago and Maryland's program has been marking time pending clearance of the Wyeth vaccine, which is used in Maryland, Washington, D. C., Delaware, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Approved for release after a recheck were the Parke Davis and Eli Lilly Companies vaccines.

Expert Woodworker

Frank Page, Carver High School senior, is shown with the credence which he made in his vocational industrial arts class the past two months. This was the project he submitted which won him the prize from Local 1024, Carpenters Union, as the outstanding woodworking student among the seniors in Allegany County public schools.

Carver High Senior Wins County Woodworking Prize

Frank Page, a Carver High School senior, has been adjudged the best woodworking student among the seniors in Allegany County public high schools and will be awarded the prize offered by Local 1024, Carpenters Union.

George A. Brown, financial secretary of Local 1024 and chairman of a seven-man committee which made the selection, said last night that Page will be awarded an apprentice membership in the union at his school's commencement Thursday, June 2.

Page was one of four finalists in the competition among seniors enrolled in vocational industrial arts classes. Wayne White of Fort Hill finished second, Michael Quartucci of Beall High School in Frostburg was third and William Ambrose of Bruce High School in Westernport was fourth.

The four boys took an aptitude test at the local office of the Employment Security Board, were interviewed by the seven-man committee and each submitted a project as a sample of his work.

Page's project was a credence, a type of side board. When it was brought to the Board of Education office last Friday to be examined by the committee it drew favorable comment from virtually everyone who saw it. His teacher, Charles E. Watermann, said the credence represented about two months of work in the school's new shop.

The credence will be shipped to Detroit to be entered in the Ford Competition against woodworking projects from the 48 states, Hawaii and Alaska.

White's project was a knee-hole desk, Quartucci made a gun cabinet and Ambrose a coffee table.

Others on the carpenters' committee which made the selection included Ralph E. Porter, president of the local; Ashby Lawrence, Joseph Mullenax and Harvey May, trustees; F. Patrick Allender, business agent, and Louis Twigg. They were assisted by J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational industrial arts in the county schools.

Last year's winner was Charles Brooks of Fort Hill. That was the first year of competition.

Keyser Woman Is Found Shot At Her Home

Mrs. Margaret Barger Succumbs In Hospital

Mrs. Margaret I. "Peg" Barger, wife of John W. Barger, of Keyser, died yesterday about 5:30 p. m. at Potomac Valley Hospital there of a gunshot wound in the right temple.

Mineral County Prosecuting Attorney Vernon E. "Pat" Rankin said the mortally-wounded 45-year old woman was discovered by her husband, editor and publisher of the Keyser Mineral Daily News-Tribune about 5:15 p. m. when he returned home from work at his newspaper office. She died as she was being admitted to the hospital.

Mrs. Barger was lying on the daybed in the basement playroom of the Barger house at 13 South Main Street when her husband found her. She had been shot in the head by a .22 caliber bullet from a small target pistol which was found nearby.

Rankin said it appeared that Mrs. Barger took her own life but no verdict will be issued until he completes his investigation into the case.

Authorities stated that Mrs. Barger had been in ill health for a number of years and had been under the care of a physician.

Her husband told police he had just returned home from the office and was preparing to keep a business appointment when he discovered his wife in the basement playroom.

Barger explained he had asked his daughter, Phoebe, 7, who was playing next door with neighborhood children, where her mother was and the child told him Mrs. Barger had gone to the basement just a few minutes before he came home.

Mrs. Barger was born December 4, 1909, in Keyser and was a daughter of Mrs. Mary I. Fisher and the late Harry G. Fisher. She attended Keyser public school and was graduated from Potomac State Preparatory School and Potomac State College.

Besides her husband, daughter and mother she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Harriet Sheetz, Keyser, and Mrs. Muriel Moritz, Washington, D. C.

The body is at the Markwood Funeral Home in Keyser.

Youth Appeals $300 Fine, Sentence On Motor Counts

A 20-year-old youth yesterday was tried for three motor vehicle violations in Trial Magistrates Court after his cousin, who formerly had pleaded guilty to the charges, told the State's Attorney he was innocent and implicated the former youth as the guilty party.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick fined George Fox Roberts, RFD 3, Keyser, $300 and sentenced the youth to one year in the Maryland House of Correction after finding him guilty on all three charges.

Attorney Earl E. Manges, representing Roberts at the hearing, indicated he would appeal the fines and sentence in Allegany County Circuit Court. Magistrate Dick ordered young Roberts held on $2,000 bond pending the appeal hearing.

Dick said the Roberts youth was charged with the three motor counts after his cousin, Edward Albert Stroh Jr., indicated to authorities the former had driven Stroh's car last February when the vehicle ran off the highway on Route 220 at Pinto and crashed through a fence on the Barton's Dairy farm.

Testimony revealed young Stroh had pleaded guilty before Magistrate William Meagher in Cresaptown last February to driving his own car when it wrecked the Barton property. Arrested by State Trooper L. C. Clark, Stroh was fined $50 by Meagher and ordered to make restitution of the damage. His driving license was revoked, also.

Then on March 22 young Stroh again was arrested on motor vehicle violations and given 60 days in the County Jail in lieu of payment of two $100 fines for operating a car on a revoked license and exceeding 70 miles per hour on the highway. Sentence was passed by Dick.

Stroh served 30 days in jail and was released when his uncle, Roberts' father, paid his fine, Magistrate Dick said.

Meanwhile, Stroh discovered that his cousin had picked up Stroh's pay check from Roberts' father who runs a construction company and for whom both youths are employed, Dick explained.

Apparently angered by young Roberts' taking of his pay checks, Stroh told the State's Attorney he was innocent of the original charges stemming from the Barton's Dairy accident and said he "took the rap" for Roberts.

Conflicting testimony by both youths at yesterday's hearing caused Magistrate Dick to say that at least one of the boys was committing perjury.

He then levied the fines and sentence against Roberts and when the case was appealed the magistrate ordered young Stroh held as a material witness for the appeal hearing on $1,000 bond.

Store Owner Praises Police And Firemen

S. Louis Curl, owner and proprietor of Curl's Camera Shop on North Centre Street, praised the efforts of police and firemen following last Wednesday's motor accident when a car crashed into the front of the store building, injuring three persons.

The letter, in part, said: "Members of my staff and myself wish to thank you for wonderful cooperative work done by members of the police and fire departments when the store front was damaged by an automobile on Wednesday afternoon, May 18.

"Quick work by police in taking the injured to the hospital and handling of the crowds and traffic prevented any additional injuries to bystanders.

"The clearing up of all loose glass and structural parts by firemen under the personal supervision of Commissioner Keegan and Chief Parker was about as neat a street cleaning job as I have ever seen.

The letter was addressed to Commissioner William V. Keegan, Chief R. Emmett Flynn and Chief Virgil A. Parker.

Local Firm To Certify Bond Issue

Funds Needed For Pipe Line, Filter Project

The Mayor and Council yesterday authorized the selection of a local firm to certify to the legality of bonds which will be needed for water projects.

City officials authorized City Attorney Thomas B. Finan to retain the services of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge to certify bonds for the 18-inch water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's plant at North Branch, and for improvements to the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

May Cost $750,000

The new pipe line is estimated to cost about $750,000. It will supply the plant with water for sanitary facilities and will be capable of filling two big water tanks used for fire fighting purposes.

The bonds might include funds for one or both of two projects at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

When the present contract for rehabilitating 12 filter units built some 40 years ago was awarded, the city did not have enough money to do the complete job.

It was decided to award part of the work, representing about $204,000, and hold up items costing $93,870 until funds were available.

This deferred work includes a number of items, including two contact basins which will eventually play a vital part in the filtration project.

Action Was Deferred

Eliminated from the contract were other projects, estimated to cost about $127,000. Major parts of this program are the installation of labor-saving motor operated valves and mixing, flocculation and settling equipment for the contact basins.

These contact basins, the first to be installed in Maryland, will remove virtually all of the sludge from the water before it hits the filter beds.

When they are in operation, the city has been told, Cumberland will have the best water in its history, since filter units will be required only to perform their intended purpose, the removal of microscopic sediment.

$1,400,000 Asked For Flood Project

The Corps of Engineers has included $1,400,000 for the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project in $22,550,000 it has requested from Congress for Middle Atlantic Area projects.

The money would be spent during the fiscal year beginning July 1. The program was detailed to a House Appropriations subcommittee by a spokesman for the Army Engineers.

Man Cuts Hand In Accident At Home

Austin A. Free, 78, of 621 Fairview Avenue, yesterday evening was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital with an injury to his right hand sustained in an accident at home.

Attaches at the hospital said Free suffered a severe laceration of his hand when a jar of preserves he was opening burst. His condition last night was reported as good. He was admitted about 5:15 p. m.

Court Is Asked To Rule On Bid Re-Advertising

Order Is Issued In Garbage Dispute

A temporary restraining order was signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris which prevents the City of Cumberland from re-advertising for bids for a garbage contract.

The city has the right to move for a dissolution of the restraining order upon five days notice.

The court order also asks the city to show cause on or before June 13 why the prayers of a bill of complaint filed by George W. Martin, 619 St. Mary's Avenue, a taxpayer, should not be granted.

Martin, in his bill of complaint, docketed by his attorney, Clarence Lippel, states that the bill is brought on his own behalf and all other similarly situated taxpayers of Cumberland.

It was further stated that the city, as part of its public works and duly authorized by its charter, has for many years collected garbage, animals and other items from the residential and business section of the city.

The last garbage contract, let to John J. Riley and Son, expired on April 30, 1955, the bill adds. The defendant city advertised for bids for garbage removal and the ad calls for the garbage contract to begin May 1, 1955, and end July 31, 1956, together with an option for the successful bidder to renew the same for additional periods of one year each thereafter for two years, the bill of complaint stated.

A supplemental advertisement had a correction of the original ad to the effect that the successful bidder would be allowed to renew each year for a four-year period.

Four Bids Received

In compliance with the advertisement the following bids were received.

Emmett A. Dougherty and Son, $64,445, C. L. Beck, $64,800; John J. Riley and Son, $67,980; and Harry E. Davis, $68,531.

The bill of complaint states that Martin has been advised that at an informal discussion in the office of the mayor on April 18, with the mayor and all the councilmen present, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz presented an order awarding the garbage contract to John J. Riley and Son, the present collector, although Riley was the third high bidder.

It is alleged that after the said order was presented it received unfavorable comment. Martin also complains that the mayor and at least some of the other commissioners did not recommend the awarding of the garbage contract to any other bidder in deference to Commissioner Buchholtz under whose jurisdiction the garbage contract was advertised.

All Bids Rejected

It was stated in the bill of complaint that on April 18 at a legislative meeting the Mayor and Council rejected all bids and directed that the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property (Buchholtz) re-advertise for bids for garbage removal. The re-advertisement has not yet been carried out, according to the complainant.

It is further alleged that at a meeting of the Mayor and Council on May 16 the matter was again discussed and no motion made to rescind the order of April 18. The order was stated by the defendant to be still in effect.

The bill of complaint states that under Section 151 of the city charter it is required by the Mayor and Council to accept the lowest responsible bid which shall be considered reasonable by the city council, and does not permit the defendant to reject all bids and re-advertise for other bids.

Authority Lacking

It is stated in the bill of complaint that under the city charter the Mayor and Council cannot reject all bids on the garbage contract unless all bids are considered excessive, in which case all bids

City, Engineers Discuss Plans For Bridges

May Advance Time For Market St. Span

Mayor Roy W. Eves said yesterday officials of the Corps of Engineers have promised to cooperate with the city in the scheduling of construction on the Market and Baltimore Street bridges.

He said that according to the schedule for flood protection work, the city might have to put up both spans at the same time unless it accelerates its plans for building the Market Street span.

The city would have to issue bonds to finance the new bridge, he added.

Mayor Eves said officials of the Corps of Engineers met with the Mayor and Council yesterday morning, and agreed to cooperate in their planning work so as to avoid the necessity of building both bridges at the same time.

Plans for the Market Street Bridge have been prepared by the J. E. Greiner Company, Baltimore. The span was estimated to cost $172,000, which includes about 15 per cent for engineering and contingencies.

It will extend 111 feet from Mechanic Street to about the entrance of the Queen City Brewery, and provides a 28 foot roadway.

The Valley Street Bridge, the first of three spans which had to be replaced as single-span structures, has been completed, except for a transformer, at the cost of about $1⅓ million.

Mt. Savage Dial Phone System To Be Changed

Direct Trunk Lines Placed To Frostburg

Direct telephone service between Mt. Savage and Frostburg will go into effect Friday when the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company places additional facilities in operation at the central office in Mt. Savage.

C. Walter Haschert, manager of the Cumberland office of the C&P said yesterday the new facilities will mean a speed-up of calls from Mt. Savage to Frostburg and will go into operation at 12:05 a. m. Friday.

Under the new procedure for calls from Mt. Savage to Frostburg the Mt. Savage customer will dial the number 8. His call will be routed directly to the Frostburg operator. The caller then needs merely to give the operator the Frostburg number he wishes to reach and the call will be placed.

This is a change from the present system of dialing "O" for operator by Mt. Savage phone users to reach Frostburg. Dialing for the operator gets the Cumberland switchboard which in turn calls the Frostburg operator now, Haschert explained. After the Frostburg operator is reached the call is placed by the Cumberland operator.

Haschert said the change will eliminate the necessity of dialing the Cumberland operator and will route the calls directly through trunk lines into Frostburg.

For calls to Mt. Savage and Wellersburg, there will be no change, he said. For other calls out of town to places such as Cumberland, the customer will dial "O" for operator.

The purpose of the move is to improve Mt. Savage to Frostburg service and to help aleviate the heavy load between the two points and between Cumberland and Frostburg and Cumberland and Mt. Savage. It is in line with the present program to expand trunk facilities in the Cumberland area, coincident with the new dial conversion, Haschert added.

The Cumberland manager noted that considerable work in the Mt. Savage central office changing wiring on relays and added trunk lines has been done to handle the new calls. The work was begun a month ago, he said.

Inserts in bills mailed this month to the customers have notified them of the change. Approximately 400 phones will be affected.
